A Trillion in Gold When Ford Advertises One Pint, Life Comes Moukhtar Bey

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1927, by Star Company.

INTEREST on "time money" with which Wall Street gentlemen speculate, dropped from 4½ to 4 per cent. yesterday and stocks went gaily upward.

If John Bracken, prime minister of Manitoba, is right, the northern part of his country contains treasure that would shake finance the world over, make our national gold supply a pitiful joke and disrupt the world's credit if it could be produced suddenly.

According to Mr. Bracken, the Flin Flon mining region in northern Manitoba contains 80,000,000 tons of copper, as much zinc, 32,000,000 TONS OF GOLD and 16,000,000 tons of silver. The gold alone would be worth more than a trillion dollars, and "trillion" is a word that even Wall Street hasn't dealt with yet, although it will come.

When Henry Ford builds automobiles, he builds automobiles. When he advertises, he advertises. Publishers are interested to ascertain that starts the new Ford car on its way, five full pages on five successive days, in TWO THOUSAND DAILY NEWSPAPERS.

Henry Ford understands advertising. First, he spends time, money, effort and thought, producing what the people want, then lets the people know he HAS IT.

Mr. Ford starts his new task as enthusiastically as he began more than twenty-five years ago, and every word he says, every detail about his new car, is important news to 115,000,000 people.

The good thing about the new Ford car is it will not disturb any other efficient automobile manufacturer or organization.

Ford will continue inducing people to drive automobiles, encouraging good roads, and his work will increase the sale, as it always has done, of bigger, more expensive cars.

Those that buy stocks evidently think Henry Ford has a good new car. "In United States stock is not for sale, he owns it all, but stock in his company in Canada went up $105 a share in two days, passing $700 a share. Last May, Henry Ford advised a few of his friends to buy it around $300 a share. It was good advice.

Michigan has a criminal case that ought to satisfy the most ardent prohibitionist. Fred Palm, convicted of possessing a pint of gin, his fourth conviction, is sentenced for that crime to life imprisonment, according to Michigan law.

Mexico Sought Jap Aid in Proposed Treaty

Washington, Nov. 30.—Japanese military aid for Mexico in the event of war with the United States, was provided for in the draft of a secret treaty formally submitted to the Japanese Government by President Calles on September 25, 1926.

The Boston Evening American and associated Hearst papers have the original memorandum containing the text of these startling treaty proposals. This memorandum, addressed to the Mexican Foreign Office for transmission to the Japanese Government, bears the hand-written signature of President Calles. It is published by the Hearst papers textually and in fac-simile today, for the first time.

President Calles proposed to Japan in this remarkable State paper that large districts of western and southern Mexico should be colonized by Japanese, from the laboring and farming classes, and that the colonists should have "some military instruction."

He next stipulated that these soldier-colonists should come to Mexico with the expectation that, "in the unfortunate case of a foreign war," Mexico might demand from them their co-operation in the struggle. He offered, in order to facilitate their entrance into Mexico, to level all immigration barriers and permit Japanese subjects to enter Mexican ports, whether land or sea, free of all restrictions.

The Mexican Executive, in Article VI of the proposed treaty, informed Japan that Mexico had concluded a secret treaty with the Liberal "government" of Nicaragua (published textually by the Boston American Monday) whereby Mexico had obtained the right to colonize the Nicaraguan districts of San Juan del Norte and Chinandega.

Calles then stated, in the same article, that Mexico is not prepared for foreign colonization and proposes that part of the Japanese immigration to the Republic of Mexico should be diverted to those districts in Nicaragua "after a stay of one year on Mexican soil." He offers to pay all transportation expenses for this movement of Japanese to Nicaragua, and proffers the guarantee that any "rights" extended to the colonists by him will be ratified by Nicaragua.

After a night which was the warmest for Nov. 29 in the history of the local weather bureau, concluding a month in which heat records were broken five times, Greater Boston temperatures today reached 63 degrees at 2 o'clock, the second warmest November 30 in 46 years.

In 1881 the high mark was 66, and in 1919 the thermometer registered 65.

Cooler weather is predicted for tomorrow, as a result of a cold wave which sent temperatures tumbling in the West, but there are indications of another warm spell following close on its heels.

STATE PLACES BEACH NEAR DEATH SCENE IN LILLIENDAHL TRAGEDY

Mays Landing, N. J., Nov. 30.—Clandestine love trysts between Willis Beach and Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl on the nights he was murderously assaulted and robbed of $2000 were described today by Herbert A. Lloyd, a witness at the trial of these two for the murder of Mrs. Lilliendahl's doctor husband.

As the widow of the slain doctor averted her face from the witness and Beach slumped down in his chair, Lloyd told of planning to entertain them together. It was the first evidence introduced at the trial of love intrigue between the pair.

"One day I was coming back from the postoffice, through the woods, when I saw a man I recognized as Beach and a woman who was Mrs. Lilliendahl," testified Lloyd, who lives in South Vineland and is a neighbor of Beach.

Under questioning, he gave details of what he saw and Mrs. Lilliendahl visibly paled.

"How did you know the woman was Mrs. Lilliendahl?" witness was asked.

"Her upper teeth were protruding, and I am satisfied that she was Mrs. Lilliendahl," replied Lloyd.

"Did Beach speak to you?"

WOMAN DROWNS TRYING TO SAVE BABY IN WELL

Amesbury, Nov. 30.—Mother love for one of her 13 children sent Mrs. Hessie E. Zeibler, 45, to her death today in a 17-foot well when she attempted to rescue her two-year-old boy.

A policeman was passing at noon when a five-year-old boy, one of twins in the Zeibler family, called to him and said:

"Mother and baby fell in the well."

Directed to the Zeibler home at No. 292 Elm street, the officer ran to the rear of the house where he found a broken planking.

Their two daughters, Nashua Holden, twenty, and Mary Holden, three, saved themselves by kicking out windows of the car and diving from the machine as it lay on the river bottom.

Nashua, however is dying at St. Luke's Hospital after being barely resuscitated. She was in the submerged machine longer than her sister and in addition to immersion and suffocation, is suffering from shock.

The tragedy that snatched away two of the Holden family occurred as the four were on their way to work in a New Bedford mill.

SPECIAL PRIVILEGES GRANTED TO JAPANESE IN SECRET TREATY

AID OF EMPIRE IN EVENT OF WAR SOUGHT BY PRESIDENT CALLES

CALLES TOLD JAPAN OF SECRET NICARAGUAN TREATY

Norte and Chinandega mentioned by Calles in Article VI command the route of the interoceanic canal which the United States hopes to build through Nicaragua, and of the naval base to be located at Fonseca Bay for its protection. This was explained by the Hearst papers yesterday together with publication of the secret treaty between Calles and the Nicaraguan Liberals).

The draft of the Japanese-Mexican agreement, called a "Secret Treaty of Immigration and Colonization," is published in fac-simile herewith. The English translation of its text follows:

To the Citizen Secretary of Foreign Relations.

Order: You will transmit to the Citizen Minister of Mexico in Japan, employing the safest methods of transmission, the following:

"Please present to His Excellency, the Prime Minister of His Majesty Yoshohito, the Mikado of Japan, the following memorandum, as a reply to the proposals which His Excellency made to the Government of Mexico for the negotiation of a Secret Treaty of Immigration and Colonization, through our Legation in Tokio; reporting in cable and in special code the contents of His Excellency's response."

SECRET MEMORANDUM

"The Government of Mexico, taking into consideration the proposals presented by His Excellency, the Prime Minister of His Majesty the Mikado of Japan for the negotiation of a Secret Treaty of Immigration and Colonization between Mexico and Japan, proposes that the said treaty be completed in the following form:

"I.—Every Japanese subject who may emigrate to Mexico while this treaty is in effect, may enter any of its ports, whether land or sea, free of all immigration restrictions; such immigrant shall be subject only to sanitary inspection and passport regulations, for which they shall not be out of pocket anything.

"II.—The Government of Mexico obligates itself by this treaty to extend every facility to Japanese immigrants for the acquisition of lands suitable for cultivation and adequate for colonization and independent farming operations. These lands to be located in the Federal Zones of the southern and Pacific Coast States of the Mexican Republic. The emigrant shall obligate himself to care for and cultivate the land thus acquired for a period of not less than fifteen (15) years counted from the date on which he is given possession of it. The land shall be paid for by the emigrant in small annuities beginning five years after having taken possession of it.

"III.—The Government of Mexico shall grant to that of His Majesty the Mikado of Japan the right to establish new navigation routes to connect with all the Pacific ports of the Mexican Republic. These new maritime routes shall be subject to the provisions of the Treaty of Amity and Commerce between the governments of Mexico and Japan, signed in October of 1924. The Mexican Government shall grant special tariff schedules covering all Japanese products destined to Japanese immigrants engaged in agriculture and colonization.

"IV.—The Government of His Majesty the Mikado of Japan SHALL OBLIGATE ITSELF TO SELECT THE IMMIGRANTS WHO ARE INTENDED FOR MEXICO; taking care that they come from the laboring and farming classes, THAT THEY HAVE SOME MILITARY INSTRUCTION and that they come with the understanding that Mexico, issuing such a cordial invitation for their immigration, does so on the firm ground of fraternity and equality, hoping to stimulate the moral and material development of the country, and WITH THE EXPECTATION THAT IN THE UNFORTUNATE CASE OF A FOREIGN WAR IT (MEXICO) MAY DEMAND FROM THEM THEIR CO-OPERATION IN THE STRUGGLE, AND SUCH SACRIFICES AS MAY BE NECESSARY FOR THE PROTECTION OF THEIR OWN INTERESTS.

"V.—The Government of His Majesty the Mikado of Japan by this treaty shall obligate itself that every Mexican emigrant who may arrive at Japanese ports shall enjoy the same privileges and guarantees granted to Japanese subjects in Mexico, including exemption from immigration restrictions and the payment of fees for passport visas.

"VI.—THE GOVERNMENT OF MEXICO INFORMS THAT OF HIS MAJESTY THE MIKADO OF JAPAN, THAT BY VIRTUE OF A SECRET TREATY BETWEEN MEXICO AND NICARAGUA WHICH WAS SIGNED RECENTLY WITH THE CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT OF THE SAID COUNTRY, MEXICO HAS THE RIGHT TO COLONIZE THE DISTRICTS OF SAN JUAN DEL NORTE AND CHINANDEGA IN NICARAGUA, WITH COLONISTS OR EMIGRANTS PROCEEDING FROM MEXICO, WITHOUT REGARD TO NATIONALITY OR RACE. TAKING INTO CONSIDERATION THE FACT THAT THE MEXICAN EMIGRANT HAS NOT SUFFICIENT PREPARATION FOR FOREIGN COLONIZATION, THE GOVERNMENT OF MEXICO PROPOSES THAT PART OF THE JAPANESE IMMIGRATION TO THE REPUBLIC OF MEXICO SHOULD BE DIVERTED TO THE REPUBLIC OF NICARAGUA AFTER A STAY OF ONE YEAR ON MEXICAN SOIL. TRANSPORTATION EXPENSES FROM MEXICAN PORTS TO THOSE OF NICARAGUA SHALL BE BORNE BY THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT AND ARE NOT TO BE REPAID BY THE COLONISTS TO THIS GOVERNMENT.

THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT OBLIGATES ITSELF TO PROCURE FROM THE CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT OF NICARAGUA RATIFICATION OF EVERY RIGHT EXTENDED TO THE COLONISTS BY MEXICO.

"VII.—The governments contracting this treaty obligate themselves TO GUARD ITS SECRET CHARACTER, FOR THE PURPOSE OF AVOIDING ANY EVIL INTERPRETATION WHICH MIGHT BE GIVEN TO IT INTERNATIONALLY, they agree mutually to put it into effect for a period of twenty-five (25) years counted from the date of its signature and ratification by representatives of the two governments.

President Calles failed in Nicaragua. His failure came because he underestimated his opponents, who proved less dumb than he thought the American officials in Washington, Mexico City, and Managua were not long in concluding that the Liberal movement in Nicaragua was not so much a spontaneous uprising of Nicaraguan patriots as it was a well organized invasion from Mexico. The reasons for this invasion were inquired into, successfully.

Information received in Washington from trusted sources in Mexico and Nicaragua was so completely compromising to the Mexican Government that the White House and State Department decided prompt and resolute action was necessary to prevent the installation of an anti-American government in Managua.

Execution of the Nicaraguan clauses of the proposed secret treaty between Mexico and Japan has become impossible. But that does not mean that the proposed treaty as a whole will be permitted to lapse.

These amazing revelations will be continued Friday by the Boston Evening American and associated Hearst newspapers.

V. El Gobierno de su Majestad el Emperador del Japon, se comprometerá por medio de este tratado, a que todo emigrante Mexicano que llegue a Puertos Japoneses, gozará de las mismas prerrogativas y garantías de que gózan los súbditos Japoneses en México, quedando tambien exentos de toda restricción de Inmigración y pago de visas de pasaportes.

VI. El Gobierno de México propone al de su Majestad el Emperador del Japon, que en virtud de un tratado secreto entre México y Nicaragua que se firmó recientemente con el Gobierno Constitucional de dicha País; México tiene derecho a la colonización de los Distritos de San Juan del Norte y Chinandega de dicho País, con colonos o emigrantes procedentes de México sin hacerse mención de nacionalidad o raza. Tomando en consideración que el emigrante Mexicano no tiene la preparación suficiente para la colonización en el extranjero, propone que parte de la emigración Japonesa que venga a México, sea trasladada a Nicaragua despues de un año de permanencia en suelo mexicano, para la colonización de los mencionados rumbos; haciendose los gastos de transportación de puertos Mexicanos a Nicaragua, por cuenta del Gobierno de México y sin retribución o compromiso de parte de los colonos hacia este gobierno; comprometiendose el Gobierno de México, a conseguir que el Gobierno Constitucional de Nicaragua ratifique todo derecho otorgado por México.

FACSIMILES OF PROPOSED PACT BETWEEN MEXICO AND JAPAN

The above are facsimiles of the draft of a treaty which President Calles of Mexico proposed to Japan. These four facsimiles are made from original documents from Mexican secret archives which are now in the possession of Hearst newspapers. The translation of the proposed treaty appears in the article accompanying these illustrations.

How Mexico Planned for Japanese Aid in War

HERE are excerpts from the draft of a treaty considered by Mexico and Japan:

"EVERY Japanese subject who may emigrate to Mexico —may enter any of its ports—free of all immigration restrictions."

"MEXICO shall grant to—Japan the right to establish new navigation routes to connect with all the Pacific ports of the Mexican Republic."

"JAPAN shall obligate itself to select the emigrants—taking care that they come from the laboring and farming classes, that they have some military instruction, and—that Mexico—with the expectation that in the unfortunate case of a foreign war it may demand from them their co-operation in the struggle."

"MEXICO—by virtue of a secret treaty—has the right to colonize the districts of San Juan Del Norte and Chinandega in Nicaragua, with colonists or emigrants proceeding from Mexico, without regard to nationality or race."

FORBES TO FLY TO POLE WITH 'DOC' COOK

By BERT FORD.

Plymouth, Nov. 30. — Colo Charles R. Forbes, former dire of the United States Veterans' reau, and Dr. Frederick Cook North Pole fame, are to fly to South Pole as soon as Dr. Coo liberated from the Federal penite ary at Leavenworth, the colonel a nounced today at the home of h ninety-year-old mother here.

Colonel Forbes and Dr. Cook wer cellmates at Leavenworth while th colonel was serving a two-year term for conspiracy to defraud the gov ernment in the award of contracts to build hospitals for disabled veterans of the World War.

"Yes," said Colonel Forbes today "Dr. Cook and I plan to make a polar expedition together, this time to the South Pole by airplane. He is to go in the role of scientist, will serve as navigator and we will select the best possible pilot available.

"Dr. Cook is far from discouraged by his North Pole experiences. He is not a fakir so far as explorations go. He convinced me by a mass of data which we compiled together in his cell that he and not Commodore Robert E. Peary discovered the North Pole.

"I told Dr. Cook when we parted at Leavenworth that I would take up his fight outside and prove to the world that he found the North Pole. The trouble with Dr. Cook was that as a medical man he was unable properly to put forth his scientific facts.

TRACES BRANDY BY EAR

'TOMATO' CASES HAD NO TOMATO RATTLE

Brandy to the extent of 287 cases valued at $35,000, which was seized on the Italian freighter "Columbia as a result of the acute sense of hearing possessed by Customs Inspector Arthur Long, went to the Appraiser's Stores for destruction today.

The brandy was cunningly packed in cases marked "Tomatoes" and in all probability would have reached the consignee at Utica, N. Y., if the trained ear of Inspector Long had not detected something wrong.

In his 22 years as inspector, Long learned there was a slight rattle in a case containing 24 cans of tomatoes. There were 300 cases marked "Tomatoes" in the cargo of the Columbia, and 13 had been unloaded when Long called a halt. His quick ear had noticed there was no rattle.

A case was opened and found to be carefully packed so that the weight was the same as a legitimate case of tomatoes. In the center was a box containing bottles of brandy which was surrounded by sawdust to absorb any leakage. Then there was a hermetically sealed tin shell inside the packing case.

In the last few days at the Appraisers' Stores some 20,000 bottles of liquor from Europe, seized on boats, have been destroyed.

PICTURES RUTH AS A MANIAC IN CHAIR

New York Nov. 30.—The State of ew York will kill a shrieking, opeless maniac if Ruth Brown nyder is permitted to go to the lectric chair, George F. Hazelton, e woman's attorney, declared today.

The once icy widow, who, with add Gray, killed her husband, will e a mad woman, probably tearing er face to shreds in her hysteria because she is so constituted as to make avoidance of such a condition impossible," Hazelton declared.

Hazelton pictured long hours of nabating hysteria with constant ttention of physicians and many trong guards necessary before Mrs. Snyder goes to the chair. In he end, he said, she will have to be dragged through "the little green door" to her doom.

"That is why we wanted an alien st of unquestionable repute to pass n this case," he said.

"The arbitrary attitude of Dr. lieb in refusing Dr. Neymann admittance to Sing Sing prison has aced Mrs. Snyder's interests in an xceedingly delicate balance. You may be sure, however, that the effort to gain her the benefit of ordinary humanitarianism will not be abandoned."

The Globe Indemnity Co. was ordered today, following a hearing at the State House, to restore the insurance policy taken out on her automobile by Mrs. Sarah B. Congdon, wife of Harold F. Congdon, former police chief at Salisbury.

At the hearing, Attorney Harold Caverly, for the insurance company introduced court records he claimed showed Congdon to have been convicted in Essex County on charges of conspiracy to violate the liquor laws and to bribe.

He charged Congdon was "hiding behind his wife's skirts" in registering the car in her name, and that the bill of sale notes were made out jointly to husband and wife.

Congdon said he bought the car for his wife, presented it to her as a gift and told her it was hers and should be registered in her name.

Mrs. Congdon told the State Board of Appeals she used the car for the most part and that her husband had never had an accident and his license had never been revoked.

Ernest Foss of Newburyport, counsel for Mrs. Congdon, declared: "There is nothing in the law which allows an insurance company to cancel a policy of a wife because of the criminal record of her husband."

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Soldiers' Shop Is Set Up in Providence to Dispose of Handiwork of Disabled World War Veterans

THE SOLDIERS' SHOP STAFF BELIEVES IN TAKING ITS WARES TO MARKET, AND NOT ONLY that, but it believes implicitly in searching out such a market where appreciation will be keen and sales resultantly heavy, all this to the rejoicing of the disabled ex-service man, for whom the Shop first came into being. Today and tomorrow Mrs. Edward Mauran Beals, Mrs. Charles R. Butler, James M. Barry and a corps of salespeople have set up shop in Providence under the roof of the "Handicrafts Club," and with smartest sponsorship.

THE VAN THAT TOOLED DOWN TO PROVIDENCE FOR THESE OCCASIONS WAS FILED high with bright and beautiful things. The marvel of it is that ex-soldier hands apply themselves with such facile ease to the creation of articles so exquisitely finished and so artistically conceived. Such is the case, however, as patrons of the Shop, and its many sales here and there, have come so well to realize. The stock taken to Providence deserves the superlative in description, and is extremely Christmasy into the bargain.

MRS. CLARENCE RANSOM EDWARDS, THE SHOP'S SPECIAL GOOD ANGEL, HAS HIGH HOPES for the financial rewards from this sale, that will make merry the Xmas season of her disabled protegees. The men have many well wishers in the Providence smart set, who last season at a similar sale came out in numbers and purchased right and left. The Shop in Boylston street, despite these travels hither and yon, is by no means denuded—the store is rich and unending and well worth oft repeated visits.

HOWEVER MUCH TIME AND THOUGHT MRS. EDWARDS devotes to her beloved Shop, she makes ample opportunity for those social diversions of which she is fond. Such, for instance, as entertaining brilliant and distinguished visitors from afar, and, in this case, visitors who are relatives as well. The Viscountess Roederer, formerly Miss Julia Thayer, and the Viscount, of Paris, have been house guests at "Doneroving," the Edwards' Westwood home.

NOW THE VISCOUNT AND HIS Viscountess have joined the latter's mother, Mrs. Stephen Van Rensselaer Thayer, for another family visit, to be with Mrs. Porter (mother of Mrs. Thayer and Mrs. Edwards) at the old home in Niagara. The Roederers are shortly sailing home to France, but Mrs. Thayer is prolonging her stay on this side, and may be with the General and Mrs. Edwards for Christmas and the General's birthday party celebrated on New Year's Day.

AS "GAIL GILBERT" MRS. ROYCE GILBERT of the Hotel Sheraton seeks a certain anonymity that only close friends recognize. She uses that nom de theatre to appear as the lovely Columbine in a fantastic comedy wearing the fragrantly suggestive name of "Lilacs in April." It is one of the numbers to be done Friday and Saturday evenings, December 9 and 10, in Jordan Hall, with dramatic students of the New England Conservatory as dramatis personae, in the main.

THESE AMBITIOUS YOUNG PEOPLE, SEEKING A DRAMATIC perfection at the Conservatory beneath the wing of Clayton Gilbert, include for their program a ballet, a comedy of English life, and a drama in two acts. A generous feast to set before their many friends and adoring elatives. Appreciation from these is, of course, great. But even a critic bound to be critical concedes that in some of these ardent young students the lamp of genius burns brightly, high promise for the future.

MRS. FREDERICK S. WHITEWELL'S SMART AFTERNOON FROCK and chapeau were both of soft deep brown for the reception yesterday in the exquisite French drawingroom at "No. 46 Beacon street." The rite of tea and cakes went on after Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer had discoursed, most illuminatingly, on politics, of course. What other topic, pray, is paramount for discussion at "No. 46?" Mrs. B. Loring Young, a pourer, made a petite and attractive picture in her high-backed chair. Mrs. George Selfridge was in black, as usual. Mrs. S. Addington Bruce was in gray. Mrs. Bruce is working like a Trojan for the Cambridge Hospital Drive just now.

AN AUDIENCE EXTREMELY SMART AND THOROUGHLY EN rapport with the youthful artist will greet Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner this evening when she ever so briefly illumines the local skies in recital. The stately ballroom of the Hotel Statler will be filled, without doubt, with the high and mighty of fashiondom, since practically every place is taken.

AS HAS BEEN BROADLY AND FREQUENTLY ANNOUNCED, Miss Otis-Skinner's Boston appearance is to benefit the Church Home Society. And since the Society rejoices in backing extremely swagger, financial benefits are bound to be heavy. Miss Otis-Skinner puts up at the Statler, but her stay is so very limited that she cannot be entertained by even such exalted ones as Mrs. Morton Prince or Mrs. Thomas Motley, Jr., vitally interested in the Society and the Recital.

JUDGING BY THEIR SMILING COUNTENANCES, AS THEY ARE encountered dashing up and down the smart thoroughfares, Miss Alison Hardy, Miss Eugenia Frothingham, Miss Polly Beale and others of the troupe find it no effort whatsoever to sell tickets to the Beverly Nichols lecture. That gifted and already famous English author is a literary lion about to roar. And, like practically every visiting notable, there's a philanthropic string to his visit. This time "Campfire House" in Commonwealth avenue, headquarters for Campfire Girls, benefits.

Israel A. Ratshesky, treasurer of the United States Trust Co., left an estate valued at $3,773,248, of which $3,342,861.34 is personal and $581,-391.66 real property, according to an inventory filed in Suffolk Probate Court today.

Mr. Ratshesky had a half interest with his brother, A. C. Ratshesky, in $2,907,652.50, and held five insurance policies for $101,535.53. He had an equity of $26,000 in the house and land at No. 347 Commonwealth avenue, valued at $66,000, equities in real estate at Swampscott.

Under the Ratshesky Agent Account, Israel Ratshesky had a one-third interest in property at Nos. 167-175 Hanover street, valued at $66,666.66; one-half interest in Nos. 367-369 Washington street, assessed for $640,000, and a half interest in Nos. 40-42 Winter street, valued at $235,000, the assessed value of the property being $470,000.

TABLET HONORS AUTHOR OF 'PIRATES OF PENZANCE'

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—On the side of a gloomy old loft building in the cloak-and-suit district today hangs a memorial tablet bearing this inscription: "On this site Sir Arthur Sullivan composed 'The Pirates of Penzance' during 1879." While Gilbert and Sullivan followers jammed the streets of the gloomy old section Walter Damrosch climbed a ladder in front of No. 46 East Twentieth street and pulled aside British and American flags, revealing between them the simple bronze tablet.

CARDINAL BONZANO'S FUNERAL HELD IN ROME

Rome, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The funeral of Cardinal Bonzano, once apostolic delegate to Washington, took place today in the church of the Sacred Heart. The church was draped in black with gold-fringed hangings. The high catafalque was surmounted by the cardinal's insignia, and surrounded by tall lighted candles.

Monsignor Antonio Maria Capetini, titular bishop of Evaria and former apostolic vicar of China, celebrated the requiem mass.

SACCO ATTACK DEMONSTRATED IN COURT

An opportunity for physical revenge on the lawyer who was cross-examining him was given Joseph Mikeljowski of the city licensing division today at the trial of Powers Hapgood, young Harvard graduate, accused as a Sacco-Vanzetti disturbance in the Common.

Mikeljowski was invited by Atty. Vincent Garo, counsel for Cosmo Carvotti, who is also on trial, to step from the witness stand and demonstrate how Carvotti elbowed Police Sergeant Thomas McTiernan, as the witness testified.

With alacrity Mikeljowski stepped down and with his bulk of 200 pounds and his six-foot frame gave Atty. Garo a shove that made him shift his feet hurriedly to stay upright.

Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley testified that, as Hapgood was being arrested, he cried, "Don't let them take me. Now is the time to protest. Don't let them murder Sacco and Vanzetti." He said at the time of the arrest the crowd increased to 5,000 or 10,000.

"Let him talk; kill him, kill him," others in the crowd shouted, according to the superintendent, who said it was impossible to break through the crowd to get the persons shouting, "kill him."

BAN ON CHARLESTON FOR ITALIAN ARMY OFFICERS

Rome, Nov. 30 (I.N.S.)—What in Italian corresponds to the familiar American "Hey! Hey!" and other noises indicating a jazzy dance enjoyment are to interest Italian army officers no more. The War Ministry today forbade officers from dancing the Charleston, Shimmy, and Black Bottom.

It was pointed out that these dances are "exotic" and offer unseemly contrast with the austerity of military tradition.

NEW FORD HAS MOTOR OF 40 HORSEPOWER

While the new Ford car, to be displayed in different parts of the country on Friday, has the lines and general appearance usually associated with high-priced automobiles, the sense of the automotive world has not forgotten the principles of economy that made the Model T famous.

After months, almost years, of experimenting, the Ford mechanical engineers finally achieved the motor that Henry Ford demanded. This engine develops 40 horsepower, but the rate of revolution is 2,200 per minute. This means longer life for the engine. Also it means that it will be possible to run the new car from 20 to 30 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

Owners of the Model T will find the new car much quieter than the familiar Ford automobile, as the mechanical engineers give a deal of time and attention to this point. The engine is practically vibrationless. In addition the unusually large crankshaft, statically and dynamically balanced, weighs but 28 pounds.

SAFER, MORE COMFORTABLE.

Accordingly the new car is not only easier to drive and safer, but infinitely more comfortable than the Model T.

Even those who are unable, through lack of knowledge, to appreciate the mechanical perfection of the new car are bound to be immediately struck by its coachwork. The coachwork resembles that used by European manufacturers, and in addition to its exterior beauty it has been designed with an eye for roominess and even luxury.

The experts who really know the car they drive will be delighted with the innovations that are exclusively Ford designs. These improvements include the generator, the oiling system, steering gear, rear axles and the four-wheel brake.

120 MILES IN TWO HOURS.

The car has been given all sorts of strenuous tests, and over ordinary roads outside Detroit one of the models traveled 120 miles in a little over two hours. In addition to the greatly increased speed of the new car, it is so constructed that it holds the road regardless of the rate at which it is traveling, and negotiates bad roads nearly as well as the best roadways.

The new car will be on display Friday at the Ford plants in Cambridge and Somerville, and at the various Ford dealers' establishments photographs will be on exhibit as well as drawings and blueprints showing every detail of the new car that has already astounded the automobile world.

FULL BENCH CONSIDERS MILK UNION'S EXCEPTIONS

Exceptions taken by a local union against a ruling in which the firm of Alden Bros., milk dealers, was awarded $67,000 damages against the union are under consideration by the full bench of the Supreme Court and no adverse ruling was made against the union as was erroneously stated in the Boston Evening American yesterday.

Alden Bros. had been awarded $67,000 damages for a strike by the Milk Drivers and Creamery Workers Union local 3009. In a finding of a master, later affirmed by the Superior Court, Arguments on exceptions were made before Supreme Court yesterday.

The Boston Evening American regrets the error of having stated that the Supreme Court ruled against the union.

ASK $8,500,000 FOR FLOOD AID

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The Vermont Legislature met in special session today to act upon the recommendation of Governor John E. Weeks that it authorize $8,500,000 in bonds for State highway and other flood reconstruction purposes.

Important among his recommendations was a plan for the State to take over the entire burden of rebuilding all roads and bridges.

Present laws limit bridge relief to towns to $5,000 for each new span, but with 1,258 bridges either destroyed or damaged the Governor urged that new, enabling legislation be adopted.

A complete survey of the damage to the highway system had shown damage estimated at $7,775,000. More than $500,000 extra is needed to restore losses suffered by other State departments.

Washington, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Support of an appropriation to repair the $8,000,000 damage to Federal and State highways by the recent flood in Vermont, was asked of President Coolidge today by Representatives Brigham and Gibson of that State.

KIMONO GIRLS' CHAT HELD BURGLAR FOR POLICE

Providence, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—By engaging him in conversation until the arrival of police, two kimono-clad sisters, Misses Mary and Margaret Mee, caught a burglar suspect, dressed in a cutaway and armed with a revolver, in their home early today. The prisoner, Antonio Nicolazzi, 25, who was locked up on a charge of carrying a weapon, said a "love affair" accounted for his presence in the house. But the Misses Mee said they had never seen him before.

BRIDE IN ODD CEREMONY WAS LOVE CHILD

Girard, Kan., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—E. Haldeman-Julius today depicted the companionate marriage of his 18-year-old daughter, Josephine, to Aubrey C. Roselle as a sequel to his romance with Anna Marcet Haldeman, starting when she was a student at Bryn Mawr College, 20 years ago.

In an interview, stating he wished to correct an impression that Josephine was an adopted daughter, the publisher and author said that his marriage in 1916 was delayed nearly six years after her birth, largely because of economic reasons. He said that neither Miss Haldeman nor himself felt they were earning enough to establish a home and that Josephine was cared for by friends until shortly after the marriage when she came to Girard to live. This, he said, led to the general belief here that she had been adopted.

Haldeman-Julius said that young Roselle, who is 20 years old and has started a college course, faced virtually the same financial problems as confronted Miss Haldeman and himself two decades ago, when he was a reporter for a New York newspaper. He explained that a desire to remove all obstacles from the romance of the young couple caused the Roselles and himself to assume all economic responsibility for the present and to urge the companionate marriage.

MAIL PILOT KILLED ON FIRST FLIGHT IN STORM

Kendallville, Ind., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Caught in a high wind and rain storm which swept northern Indiana last night, Pilot Edward Asbery, making his first flight as an air mail flier, was killed when his plane crashed on a farm eight miles north-west of here.

Hughes' Adopted Son Sued

Chicago, Nov. 30 (I.N.S.).—Marion Harris, jazz singer, today filed suit for divorce from Rush Bissell, adopted son of Rupert Hughes, novelist and magazine writer. The singer said she had supported her husband since their marriage.

COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

Two of my Favorite Cakes

I FIND that I can make just as delicious cakes with Crisco as with expensive butter. When a recipe calls for butter, I use the same amount of Crisco and add one teaspoon of salt for each cup of Crisco used.

My Crisco cakes are always lovely—they always come out even, with a light, fine texture. Hardly anyone who eats them can tell they are made without butter. And they stay fresh and delicious a wonderfully long time.

So that you can discover this welcome new economy yourself, I am giving here recipes for two of my favorite cakes.

Devil's Food Cake

⅓ cup Crisco
2 cups sugar
2 sq. chocolate, in 1 cup boiling water; let simmer 2 minutes
2 eggs beaten separately
2½ cups flour
½ teaspoon soda in ½ cup of sour milk
½ teaspoon salt

Cream Crisco thoroughly. Add sugar gradually. Add egg yolks beaten thick and lemon colored. Beat well. Add a little flour, then chocolate and water alternately with rest of flour. Add sour milk, and soda. Fold in whites of eggs. Bake in loaf pan in moderate oven (325° F.) for forty-five minutes.

Icing

2 egg whites
1 cup sugar
⅓ cup hot water

Boil sugar and water to soft ball. Pour one-third syrup over the well-beaten egg whites. Continue beating while remainder cooks until it spins a thread. Add to egg mixture. Beat. Add one teaspoon vanilla. Spread over cake when cool.

Featherweight White Cake

½ cup Crisco
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
3 egg whites
⅔ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt

Cream Crisco with sugar. Stir in alternately milk and sifted dry ingredients. Fold in thoroughly stiffly beaten egg whites. Add vanilla and turn batter into two greased layer pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about 20 minutes.

Ice with cocoanut or maple icing, or Crisco white icing.

Crisco White Icing

2 cups confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons Crisco
3 tablespoons milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon almond or lemon extract
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream Crisco with egg and salt. Add milk and rest of sugar and flavoring. Mix well.

(All measurements level)

CRISCO

For Frying

TRUMBULL THRILLED BY HIS FIRST AIR TUTOR

Hartford, Ct. Nov. 30 (A.P.)—The greatest thrill Governor Trumbull has yet gotten out of aviation came a few days ago when his first instructor tendered him a ½ hill for a brief flight on which the "Flying Governor" carried his one-time tutor as a passenger. The Governor said today that not even his first solo flight gave him so great a thrill as that, his sixteenth.

It was Major Talbot O. Freeman who, as commander of the 118th Observation Squadron, first let the Governor "take the stick" of a flying plane, and who tendered his former pupil the customary honorarium for a brief flight.

To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Mixe as usual for prompt results. Takes but a moment to make. Saves about $2

Pinex is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is, pinex has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pinex and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, bronchitis and hoarseness.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Warsaw, Ind.

PINEX for Coughs

U. S. SUSPECTS WAR SCARE IS PROPAGANDA

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.

Washington, Nov. 30.—If the European situation is one-tenth as serious as it has been pictured in apparently inspired dispatches from London, Paris and Geneva to American newspapers in the last few days, not a single American ambassador or minister abroad has taken the trouble to cable one word on the subject to the State Department.

In the absence of any reports from its own representatives on the ground, the government is inclined to dismiss these alarming reports as advance advertising for the coming session of the Council of the League of Nations.

POLITICS SUSPECTED.

On the eve of the meeting of the Council and Assembly, the Secretariat of the League generally tries to give the world the impression that it is threatened with another great war and only the League can save the world from such a disaster. Then the Council or the Assembly meets and the fictitious war clouds disappear.

Of course, it is well known here Poland and Lithuania have long been at odds. And there are several other European disputes, equally chronic, that are heralded as entering the acute stage on the eve of the meeting of one of the two houses of the League every year.

Examination of the organization of the Secretariat of the League has impressed American observers with the fact that it is one of the most powerful propaganda agencies in the world. The aim of all its propaganda is to increase the power and prestige of the parent organization. The ramifications of the Secretariat, which is headed by one of Britain's cleverest diplomats, reach into every country in the world.

AMERICAN FINANCING.

Much of the money for the financing of this propaganda is said to come from a small group of wealthy Americans, who are deeply disgruntled over the refusal of their countrymen to permit the government at Washington to join the League. The propaganda which the Secretariat is distributing in the United States just now probably gets its slant from M. Comnett, the clever French diplomat, who is at the head of the press section of the League and is well known in Geneva as very anti-American in his views.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

"Ho said, 'Keep quit, or it won't be well for you if you talk.'"

The witness said that he also recognized Beach's car, and that, later that night, he saw the same car stop near Mrs. Lilliendahl's home and she got out of it and entered her home. He reiterated the fact that he was sure of the identification.

Drove by Death Lane

Although failing to identify the defendant "in the flesh," William Driver, a Blackwood, N. J., business man, today took the witness stand and positively identified a huge photograph of Beach as the man he saw driving out of the lane, a half-mile from the spot where Dr. Lillendahl was slain in a pine grove.

With the exception of a preceding witness, J. J. Collins, a tenement dealer, by whom the State sought to show Beach was "established an alibi the day after the murder," it was the first time the gray-haired defendant's name had been mentioned during the three days of the trial.

As Druin testified Beach began to display his first signs of nervousness during the trial.

Driver testified that on the day of the murder he was driving toward Hammonton with his partner and an employe, at 11:15 in the morning.

A little after the murder hour fixed by the State, Driver said he saw a car come out of a lane off the main highway, about a half mile from the small lane in which Dr. Lillendahl was killed and on the same side of the road.

Hurl a Second "Bomb"!

Asked to look at Beach in the courtroom, Driver said, "I couldn't say positively that he is the same man."

But a few moments later, when shown a large photograph of Beach, the witness exclaimed, "That is the man. It is his eyes, his hat."

The speaker added that because the car was making such speed or wasn't positive of its make, but that it looked like the blue Chrysler which Beach drives.

Despite objections from defense attorneys, the court allowed the evidence to stand.

A few minutes later, the defense produce Andre J. Rider, a wrinkled old cranberry merchant of Hammonton. Asked if he had ever seen Rider before, Driver answered, "No."

Rider in the main the defense will contend drove the car out of the lane on the murder day.

Another State bomb was hurled into the defense camp today when Harry F. Sanderson, of Sidney, Ohio, said he saw a blue coupe near the murder lane and a man resembling Beach run toward it.

Opening the third day's session today found John McArleth, Atlantic City chemist, on the witness stand. He confirmed earlier testimony that stains found on Mrs. Lillendahl's purse and clothing were those of human blood.

He testified that he examined one of the five $5 bills which the State claims were found in Mrs. Lillendahl's purse and noticed that it was stained with blood.

The witness was questioned by Prosecutor Hinkle.

Q—Can you say what kind of blood was on the bill? A.—Yes, human blood.

He then testified that he examined all the rest of the $5 bills.

"Three of these bills were spotted with human blood, the other two were not," he said.

Q.—Did you examine some clothing? A.—I did, a dress, some stockings and a belt.

Q.—What did you find on the dress? A.—Human blood.

Q.—And on the belt, what did you find, if anything? A.—Stains made by human blood.

The blood-stained garments were exhibited in court.

Expert Is on Stand

Attorney McCarter of defense counsel here took the witness for cross-examination. He dwelt for some length on the professional experience of the witness, but Dr. McArleth, a serious looking individual, apparently satisfied his cross-examiner.

He said he had been in business for himself for five years.

Q.—Did you keep a protocol—a record, step by step—of what you found on the articles you examined? A.—I did not. I kept a record of the results of my examination.

Q.—How did you find the so-called spots which you later examined? A.—Some were visible to the naked eye the was referring to the spots spattered on the stockings of Mrs. Lillendahl, others were distinctly visible through the microscope.

The witness then told how he analyzed the blood spots and arrived at his conclusion that it was human blood.

McCarter fought hard to discredit the witness, but Dr. McArleth always had a ready answer for the venerable defense counsel, and always managed to successfully sidestep the legal traps set for him.

In his cross-examination McCarter made much of the fact that Dr. Louis Meyer, the first blood test expert called by the State, had used "stock serum" in the tests of the blood spots found on the widow's dress, her stockings and on three of the $5 bills in her handbag.

Talked About Murder

Dr. McArleth had the advantage of the defense counsel in this same attack today.

Q.—Where did you get the rabbit serum used in the test to determine if this was human blood? A.—I made it myself.

Witness then went on to describe in detail the process of producing the best serum by injecting human blood into rabbits.

McCarter's determined effort to upset the standing of the biological chemists called by the State and his elaborate irony designed to give the impression that these scientific tests might, after all, be largely guess work, seemed an admission on his part that their evidence was extremely damaging to the defence case.

His fight against them, on cross-examination, has been the most bitter of the three days of the trial. His battle against admission of the maps marked at the murder scene and the slain doctor's checkbook were but skirmishes compared to his extended cross-examination of the biological experts.

McCarter tried to read from a biological chemist's text and was halted by Hinkle's objection.

L. L. Collins of Hammonton was the next witness. He said he was in the cemetery monument business and was acquainted with Beach.

Q.—Were you ever given an order by Beach? A.—Yes.

Q.—When? A.—The first order was given in May, 1926, the others were in November, 1926, and in January, 1926, and January, 1927.

Q.—What was the amount of the contract? A.—$1,600.

The witness identified a letter which he had received from Beach. The letter was offered in evidence.

Edison Hedges, attorney for Beach, here jumped to his feet with an objection, which was overruled.

The letter was then read to the jury. It was dated August 16th, 1927, and referred to a marker which Collins had completed for Beach. Beach, in the letter, stated that he would call at Collins' office in the week of November 21st and trusted the delay would not inconvenience Collins. The letter was written in reply to one Beach received from Collins dated August 6th, 1927.

The photograph of Collins' marble yard was introduced into evidence and pinned on the wall.

Coming down to the day of the murder, Collins testified that he talked to Beach fifteen minutes on that day and then drove out to the Oak Grove Cemetery, where they remained until about 4 o'clock.

"I again saw Beach," said the witness, "the next day. He then said he'd heard Dr. Lillendahl was shot. I told him I heard about it. Later Beach said it was a good thing he was with me or they might think he did it."

Beach Is Nervous

The little chicken raiser took an added interest in the proceedings with this first mention of his name in testimony. He began to show nervousness for the first time. His left hand was raised to his face, grown sallow with jail pallor, and he fumbled with his lips and even bit at his fingers.

Attorney Edison Hedges of Beach's counsel cross-questioned the witness.

Q.—Beach went to the cemetery quite often? A.—Yes.

Q.—About how many times did you and Beach visit the cemetery A.—Three or four times.

Q.—When you saw him on September 15 you didn't notice anything strange in his attitude? A.—No, I did not.

Q.—Now you place him there about 1:15 p. m.? A.—Yes, I place him there about that time. Just at 1:15, September 15.

Q.—And he stayed until around 4 in the afternoon? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who came, if anyone, while Beach was there? A.—Mr. Wilson (Collins' partner).

Q.—How long did Mr. Wilson stay? A.—Until about half-past three.

The witness then told of the conversation which took place at the cemetery between himself and Beach —regarding the tombstone markers.

Wasn't "Positive"

Q.—Who drove the car to the cemetery? A.—Mr. Beach.

Q.—Anything peculiar about his driving? A.—No.

Q.—Was he nervous? A.—If he was I didn't notice it.

Q.—Perfectly normal? A.—I should say so.

William Driver, a contractor of Morrisville, Penn., was called next.

Driver opened his testimony by saying he and his partner were driving toward Hammonton with an employe on the murder day.

Q.—What time did you pass the great swamp lane bridge? A.—At 11:35.

Q.—What did you see? A.—We saw a man in an automobile. We were going about 40 miles an hour. I was pointing out where I shot a deer last Fall. We saw this car come out of the lane, driving about 20 or 25 miles an hour.

Q.—How far from the murder lane? A.—About a half mile.

Q.—Who was in that car? A.—A man.

Identifies Picture

Q.—Do you see anyone in the court whom you recognize as the driver of that car? A.—Not positively.

Q.—Will you look at the defendant, Beach; do you recognize him? A.—Not positively.

Q.—Have you seen Beach's car since? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you recognize it as the car you saw that day? A.—There was nothing on it by which I could identify it.

After thus failing to identify Beach personally, Driver sprang a surprise by identifying a photograph of Beach as "the man who drove out of the lane."

The picture was submitted to witness by Prosecutor Hinkle.

"That is the man. It is his eyes and his hat," said Driver.

Despite vigorous objection by defence, the testimony was admitted in evidence, as was the photograph.

State Hits Hard Blow

When Driver was about to leave the stand, Attorney Phillips, of defense called a man in the audience to the stand. He was Andrew J. Rider, cranberry raiser of Hammonton. He was a little old lean man, with a fringe of white hair.

Ever see this man before?" Phillips asked.

"No," replied Driver.

Q.—Never .. your life? A.—No.

Rider is the little white haired man the defense will contend was driving the car which shot out of the lane near the murder scene.

Harry F. Sanderson, of Sidney, Ohio, a "surprise witness," next took the stand.

This witness struck the state's hardest blow when he placed a blue coupe near the murder scene and said he saw a man resembling Beach run toward it.

Sanderson, a portly individual, with a large red face, spoke in a voice husky, deliberate, deep.

He said he was a salesman of the Ohio City and was driving from Atlantic City to Trenton on the murder day.

Q.—What time did you pass the scene of the crime? A.—Around 1 o'clock.

Q.—In what direction? A.—I was going toward Trenton.

Q.—Have you since visited the premises? A.—I have.

Q.—Did you see any automobile around there? A.—A blue coupe parked alongside the road.

Q.—How far from the scene of the crime? A.—Just north of the bend.

Sanderson here pointed out on the map the approximate place near the murder lane where the coupe stood.

Q.—Was there anyone in that car? A.—Not that I remember.

Q.—Did you see anyone? A.—I saw a man run out of the woods.

Q.—Can you recognize anyone in the courtroom who looks like that man? A.—I don't know. I only glanced at the man.

Q.—Look at the defendant; was that the man? A.—He resembles him.

Justice Campbell: "Stand up, Mr. Beach.

Q.—Was that the man? A.—Yes, he looks like him.

Hinkle announced to the court that he was very much surprised at the testimony of Sanderson, and the court allowed the State to cross-examine its own witness, a most unusual proceedure.

He evidently expected an even stronger identification than that made, which at best was partial. He wished to introduce a picture of Beach that Sanderson had seen before.

Hedges was at once on his feet, fighting. He objected to Sanderson testifying as to a picture of Beach he had been shown previously. He was overruled.

Q.—Did you form an opinion at the time you saw the picture? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you identify at the time that picture as one of the man you saw running out of the woods? A.—I said it resembled the man. I said it looked very much like him.

Q.—When you were shown the picture by Mr. Harrold, did you express your opinion in the same words? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you see another car at that time? A.—Yes, the back end of it, in the woods.

Q.—On the same side of the road out of which the man came? A.—The same side.

Q.—Did you see any colored persons around? A.—I did not.

Beach's Wife Kisses Mrs. Lilliendahl

May's Landing, N. J., Nov. 30 (I.N.S.).—The spectacle of a wife publicly kissing the woman who is said to have been her husband's secret love mate and whose name is linked with his on a murder charge was afforded spectators at the Lilliendahl murder trial here today.

Mrs. Amanda Beach, gray-haired wife of Willis Beach, co-defendant with Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, kissed Mrs. Lilliendahl in the courtroom at the opening of today's session.

Mrs. Beach had just finished a chat with her husband.

Mrs. Lilliendahl flushed slightly at the unexpected action. She is accused of plotting with Beach to murder her husband.

The New Ford Car will sell at a SURPRISINGLY LOW PRICE

Complete details of the new car which will be officially announced this FRIDAY

THE MINUTE you see the pictures of the new Ford car you will be delighted with its low, smart lines and the artistic color combinations. There, you will say, is a truly modern car.

But a still greater thrill awaits you when you slip into the roomy seat behind the wheel and start away for your first ride. Then you will know that you have found the most unusual value ever offered in a low-price car.

You will like the feeling of speed and power that the new Ford gives you—the comfortable, prideful feeling that comes from having a car worthy of any occasion and equal to every emergency.

You will like the flexibility and safety of the new Ford car as you weave in and out of city traffic—its flashing pick-up as the light turns green and the sign says "Go." You will like its smooth, quiet steadiness on the open road where you can lazy along according to your mood, or do 55 and even 65 miles an hour if you desire. The new Ford has unusual speed—no doubt of that!

A smart, low, speedy car that has been built to endure

The new Ford will climb hills that you never thought a low-price car would climb on high. It will pass cars that you never thought you could pass. The longest trips will seem easy, for here is a car that puts new joy in motoring.

There is still another reason why the new Ford car is the most outstanding value ever offered in a low-price car. An important three-word reason that means a great deal to you — endurance — durability — long life.

The new Ford car is made to stand up under thousands upon thousands of miles of steady running over all kinds of roads. It has even more stamina than the Model T Ford because we have learned to make every part stronger and sturdier without increased weight or greatly increased cost.

Many of the Model T Ford cars are still in active service after 75,000, 100,000 and 150,000 miles. This new Ford car will do even better. In the words of Henry Ford: "It is our ambition to have every piece of machinery or non-consumable product that we turn out so strong and so well-made that no one ought ever to have to buy a second one."

Four-wheel brakes and standard, selective gear shift

On the right, we are printing, for the first time, the complete details of the new Ford car. Read them over carefully, especially the paragraphs dealing with the new engine, the new bodies, the new standard, selective gear shift transmission with roller bearings, the new four-wheel brakes, the new hydraulic shock absorbers, the new mechanical design ignition, the new oiling system and the new dry-plate, multiple-disc clutch.

Then decide that whatever else you do Friday you are going to set aside at least fifteen minutes to get the full story of the new Ford car. It is more than a new automobile. It is the advanced expression of a wholly new idea in modern, economical transportation.

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD CAR

55 TO 65 MILES AN HOUR

The new Ford has unusual speed. It will do 55 to 60 miles an hour with ease. This is a conservative statement. In many road tests it has exceeded 65 miles an hour. So well does the new car hold the road that you can travel at high speed for long stretches with a new feeling of comfort and safety. Even bad roads may be taken at a fast pace. You will be delighted too with the way the new Ford climbs the hills. You will face the steepest grades with confidence, knowing you have power and power to spare to climb them all without greatly reduced speed, without strain, or unnecessary shifting of gears.

40-HORSE-POWER ENGINE

At 2200 revolutions per minute, the new Ford four-cylinder engine develops 40 horse-power. This r. p. m., or revolution speed, is low for such power and shows that the engine is unusually efficient. It also means long life, for the lower the speed of the engine, the less the wear on its parts. The bore is 3⅛ inches and the stroke 4¼ inches. (S. A. E. and N. A. C. C. rating for license purposes, 24.03 horse-power.)

REMARKABLE ACCELERATION

The new Ford is remarkably quick on the get-away. In tests in high gear, with a Tudor sedan body and two passengers, it has accelerated from 5 to 25 miles per hour in 8½ seconds. This acceleration is an outstanding feature of the new Ford car.

PREVENTING VIBRATION

The engine in the new Ford is practically vibrationless. This is due in part to its lower r. p. m., the statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft, and the aluminum pistons. To insure quiet, the timing gears are made of bakelited fabric instead of metal, and the cams on the camshaft are so designed that the valve push rods follow them closely, preventing valve clicking.

GASOLINE ECONOMY

You will get from 20 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline, depending on the speed at which you drive. Feed to the carburetor is by gravity from a unique welded one-piece steel tank integral with the cowl.

UNIQUE NEW OILING SYSTEM

The oiling system is distinctly Ford in design, being a combination of pump, splash, and gravity feed. The pump delivers the oil to the valve chamber, from which it flows by gravity feed to the main bearings of the crankshaft. An oil dipper is provided on each connecting rod bearing cap, so that the force of rotation of the crankshaft drives oil into the connecting rod bearings, as well as splashing oil over all working parts within the engine. This is a simple but entirely dependable system, assuring proper lubrication of each bearing and each cylinder without pressure.

PERFECTED COOLING

The new Ford car has a centrifugal water pump, and large radiator. The fan runs on the pump shaft and is made according to airplane propeller design. It is exceedingly difficult to make the new Ford engine overheat, only abuse will do it, such as running without enough oil.

IGNITION SYSTEM OF NEW DESIGN

The ignition system of the new Ford is unique in mechanical design, extremely simple, and will give the car owner exceptional performance with a minimum of trouble. There is only one coil, in a water-proof case. The distributor is located on top of the engine where it is clean and easily accessible. Connections are made to the spark-plugs by short bronze springs. The coincidental lock on the new Ford is placed in the ignition circuit. It not only replaces the regular ignition switch, but in the "off" position grounds the entire circuit. From the switch to the distributor a steel cable protects the primary current wire, this wire being grounded to the distributor casing, thereby making it impossible to wire around the device. The new generator is of the power-house type.

STANDARD, SELECTIVE GEAR SHIFT

The new Ford transmission is of the selective sliding gear type, with standard shift. It has three speeds forward and one reverse. The main shaft runs on ball bearings, the countershaft on roller bearings, and the reverse idler on a bronze bearing. This is the highest type of bearing mounting and is unusual on light cars. All gears are made of heat-treated chrome alloy steel. You will be delighted with the easy, noiseless shifting of gears in this new transmission. You can go from one to another easily, silently, with the pressure of a finger.

EXCEPTIONALLY EASY TO STEER

The steering gear on the new Ford car is irreversible. Shocks are not transmitted back to the hands of the driver. You need not grip the wheel tightly. A light touch is enough to guide the car safely. Large steering wheel is made of steel, covered with hard rubber. Light switch and horn button are conveniently located on top of wheel.

NEW FOUR-WHEEL BRAKES

The brakes on the new Ford car are an exclusive Ford development. They are of the mechanical, internal expanding-shoe type and are self-centering. This is the most reliable and the simplest type of four-wheel brake and the easiest to adjust. All adjustments are made from the outside without removing any parts. No special tools are needed. Uniform, correct adjustment on each wheel is quickly and easily obtained. The brake pedal and the hand lever each operate all four brakes. Total braking surface is 168 square inches. All brake working parts are cadmium plated to make them rust-proof.

MULTIPLE DRY-DISC CLUTCH

The clutch in the new Ford is of the multiple dry-disc type, which is the most reliable. It is also the easiest to operate, for it takes hold gently and smoothly. It has four driving discs and five driven discs.

COMFORTABLE TRANSVERSE SPRINGS

The springs are of the transverse, semi-elliptic type, designed and built for the new Ford. This type, which was used in the Model T, was adapted to the new car because no better spring type could be found. They are built of the finest spring steel, and the leaves are wide and thin. Each spring is built up of varying sizes and number of leaves to give proper flexibility and to meet riding requirements of the different body types. The size and number of leaves used in these springs is one of the reasons why the new Ford is such a comfortable car. The construction of the transverse springs also contributes to the safety and efficiency of the 4-wheel brakes.

HYDRAULIC SHOCK ABSORBERS

The finest type hydraulic shock absorbers are standard equipment on the new Ford. These combine with the low center of gravity, the minimum unsprung weight, and the easy riding qualities of the transverse springs to make the new Ford one of the most comfortable cars on the road today.

THREE-QUARTERS-FLOATING REAR AXLE

The rear axle of the new Ford is of the three-quarters-floating type. The axle housings are made entirely of steel, built up by welding steel forgings to steel tubing. The differential housing, to which these housings are bolted, is made of rolled channel steel. The axle shafts carry none of the weight of the car, the wheels running on roller bearings on the housing. All bearings in the rear axle are of the roller type. Drive is by spiral bevel gear.

FORD-DESIGNED STEEL-SPOKE WHEELS

Original design and great strength are two features that mark the unique, Ford-designed steel-spoke wheels. Each wheel is assembled by welding, and becomes one piece of metal. Spokes cannot work loose. Each spoke has a tensile strength of 4000 pounds. Outside spokes do not cross, so that the wheels are easy to clean. There are only 30 spokes in each wheel.

BEAUTIFUL NEW LOW BODY LINES

There is a bit of the European touch in the coachwork and contour of the new Ford. Bodies are steel. Fenders are of the full crown type. Appointments and hardware are of a luxurious type seldom found in a low-price car. Upholstery is of rich, durable material. Cushions are deep and easy. Door handles and window lifts are fully nickeled. Speedometer, gasoline gauge, ammeter and ignition lock are mounted on an instrument panel of satin-finish nickel, illuminated by a lamp in center. Headlamps and radiator shell are fully nickeled. Closed cars have the new military-type sun visor and crown roof. Great care has been taken in designing the new Ford to provide generous seat space and ample leg room. Clear, unobstructed vision is assured at front by unusually narrow pillars and at sides by specially designed doors with large windows.

CHOICE OF FOUR COLORS

The color combinations used on the new Ford are especially artistic and attractive. Four color choices are offered for each body type—a most unusual feature in a low-price car. Purchasers may choose any one of the following colors—Niagara Blue, Arabian Sand, Dawn Gray, and Gun Metal Blue. Belt and reveals are finished in contrasting colors, with attractive striping. The finish is pyroxylin lacquer, one of the finest and most enduring finishes for automobile bodies. It is not affected by heat or cold, withstands all kinds of weather conditions, and is not easily marred or scratched. The lustre actually improves with washing.

A QUIET CAR

In designing the new Ford, every precaution was taken to prevent squeaks, rattles and drumming sounds. Body panels and frame sections are welded and riveted together wherever there is possibility of the body weaving. In all structural details the new Ford bodies are built to afford the utmost quietness and comfort.

GREASE GUN LUBRICATION

The chassis of the new Ford is lubricated by the pressure grease gun system, the simplest and most effective method of lubrication.

Mrs. Gibbons Says She Dared Not Quit 'Tony'

her friendship for Da Silva, adding that her husband was the friend of another woman.

After detailing the occasion when she said she had last seen her husband alive on April 18, five days before his battered body was found in a well on a lonely farm, the woman painted a picture of the scene in a Fall River undertaker's establishment, where she was brought without being warned, she averred, that her husband was dead.

TAKEN TO POLICE STATION.

Inspector Crossley came to me and told me that my car had been in an accident, and I told him he was wrong, and I took him to the garage to see the car. Then he said that I had better go to the station house anyway. First they put me in a room and then in a cell.

"The next day they brought me out to an automobile. Inspector Clemmey drove it, there was an other inspector in the front seat and a man beside me. At the undertaker's shop they pushed me in the door, but it was so dark I couldn't see anything. Then I saw a white sheet.

"Then they pulled away the sheet and I saw my husband. They pushed me over on his body. Inspector Clemmey said: 'You killed your husband.' I said I didn't kill him.

"They pushed me on top of his body again, and I fainted. I don't know what happened after that until I got to the station house. They had to hold me up, and they walked me up and down and said that if I didn't come out of my faint they would put ice on my back. I would have told them if I knew who killed my husband."

DIDN'T KNOW HE WAS DEAD.

The widow told of visiting her husband's home at No. 40 Foster street, but he wasn't there. She didn't know he was dead at this time, she said.

Next the witness told of the scene in New Bedford House of Correction where she was visited by Inspector Clemmey, her brother, Manuel Frazier, and her baby boy, Herman.

Her counsel put the question: "Did you ever tell your son Herman that either you or Da Silva hit your husband over the head."

The witness answered heatedly: "No." Inspector Clemmey said: Gertrude, come clean. We've got the pipe. If you plead guilty I'll help you; if not, you'll get the chair. Your little boy told us all about it. I asked him how my boy could tell all about it when I didn't know about it myself."

Defence counsel made no opening when he started his case, his first move being to call Mrs. Gibbons to the stand.

SAYS SHE FEARED DA SILVA.

After Mrs. Gibbons had testified she had always loved her husband and only remained with Da Silva through fear, and after she had given the lie to her brother, a government witness, she said emphatically she had not killed her husband and had no part in her killing.

Cross-examined by District Attorney Crossley, she said Da Silva visited her nearly every day. She had been living with him, she admitted, from January up to the time of her arrest on May 22.

Queried about her brother's testimony that she had pointed out the Bonney Farm (where the body was found) Mrs. Gibbons said: "My brother lied when he said that. I didn't know where the farm was until I went there with the jury."

Asked why she had not reported her husband's disappearance, Mrs. Gibbons said she thought he had gone to his mother's home or to Brockton. (The alleged other woman in Gibbons' life was supposed to live in Brockton.)

ity poor along the road, and the mist was especially thick on the bridge.

According to Mary the Hellen car, driven by her father, turned out to pass another machine and as the cars rolled together, Hellen sighted through the mist an unidentified man walking across.

To avoid the pedestrian, Hellen stepped on his brake pedal, the wheels locked, skidded and the machine tore through the bridge rail and dove.

Two fishermen in a rowboat succeded in recovering the bodies of the drowned couple.

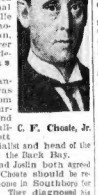
the Boston Elevated by the United Car Advertising Company of New York for alleged breach of contract.

Mr. Choate was counsel for the Elevated and Sherman L. Whipple represented the New York concern.

Mr. Choate was seated at counsels' table today with his son, Charles F. Choate, 3rd, when the son became aware of his father's illness.

Mr. Whipple was arguing a motion before Judge Elisha H. Brewster. The younger Choate stepped quickly to the side of Attorney Whipple and whispered that the elder Choate had collapsed. The plaintiff lawyer ceased his argument and rushed to the side of the stricken man.



C. F. Choate, Jr.

Mr. Choate was carried to the private office of United States Marshal William Keville and Dr. Timothy Sullivan, medical officer of the postal department, was summoned.

Then Dr. Daniel Hunt was summoned from a nearby insurance office, and he advised calling Dr. Elliott H. Joslin, specialist and head of the Joslin clinic in the Back Bay.

Drs. Hunt and Joslin both agreed that Attorney Choate should be removed to his home in Southboro for indefinite rest. They diagnosed his illness as a physical breakdown induced by overwork.

He was removed to Massachusetts General Hospital, where he died soon afterward.

BORN IN CAMBRIDGE.

Attorney Choate was born in Cambridge, the son of Charles Francis and Elizabeth W. (Carlyle) Choate. He was graduated from Harvard University in 1858 and four years later married Miss Louisa Burnett of Southboro.

In addition to Charles F. Choate 3rd, a surviving son is Robert Choate, Washington correspondent for the Boston Herald.

The lawyer for many years was counsel for the United Shoe Machinery Co. He was president of the Appleton Co., vice-president of the Massachusetts Hospital Life Insurance Co. and director of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, Merchants National Bank of Boston and other organizations.

BEACH PLACED NEAR DEATH LANE

Q.—Do you know Mr. Gregory? A.—I do.

John J. Gregory is a private detective hired by Mrs. Lillendahl.

McCarter then took up examination of the witness.

Q.—Didn't you, on the day after the murder, tell a group of persons that you were driving along the road at about the time it happened, and that you saw two colored men coming out of the lane? A.—I did not.

Talked With Beach

Q.—Do you know a man named Eisenhardt? A.—Yes.

Q.—Didn't you tell him in words or substance, "I don't know what the h—— they want me to testify at the Lillendahl murder trial for, I'm sure I don't know what I can say?" A.—I did.

Jack the Thornborrow of South Vineland was the next witness. He lives about a quarter of a mile from Beach.

Q.—On September 17 did you see Willis Beach and with whom was he talking? A.—Yes, with Irving Charlesworth.

Q.—What did you hear said and what did you say? A.—We said "Good morning" and he asked me if I saw him the morning of September 18 and I said I did not recall.

Q.—Did he fix a time? A.—He called my attention to the time he said it was around 9 o'clock.

Q.—Did you see Mr. Beach that morning? A.—Not later than 10:30. I couldn't say how much earlier it was.

Q.—What were you doing? A.—Bunching beets.

Q.—What time did you quit work? A.—Between 10 and 11 o'clock.

Q.—Do you recall whether Mr. Beach said he waved to you? A.—I don't recall.

Hinkle admitted to the court that Thornborrow was "another surprise" to the prosecution. He was evidently disappointed with him.

Irving Charlesworth, who lives next door to Beach, was the first witness of the afternoon.

Was "Afraid of Beach"

Q.—Did you see Willis Beach September 15? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you see him and, if so, what was said September 17? A.—I saw him the 17th and he asked me if I had seen him the 15th and I said I couldn't recall. "Well," he said, "if you can't remember, I suppose that's all there is to it." We talked of other things.

Q.—Did he ask if you were a friend of his? A.—He did and I said I was.

Q.—Did he say why? A.—He said he thought the cops would be after him and told me he had passed me that day in his car and waved his hand at me, but I couldn't remember it.

Q.—Did Beach mention to you a trip he was going to make Labor Day? A.—He did.

Q.—What signal did he use to let you know he was going to make the trip?

McCarter objected and Prosecutor Hinkle said it would be shown that the signal Beach then employed figured later in this case. Justice Campbell here called the attorneys into a conference which the jury couldn't hear.

After their low-toned parley was finished, Justice Campbell ruled that the question should not be answered.

John Possumato, an automobile man, who sold Beach his blue coupe last July, was called next.

Q.—Did you talk with Beach about that car September 14? A.—Either on the 14th or 13th. I told him I would stake the car if he didn't keep up the payments. He was two months behind. He said, "Don't do it, I'm going to get enough money, maybe, to pay it all up." He said he had important business to tend to and he needed the car. He gave me a check and told me to hold it a day or so.

Q.—Was that check good? A.—Yes, it was.

SALLY'S SHOULDERS

by Beatrice Burton
Author of "The HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC—

The Story of a Clever Boston Girl and Her Temperamental Sister

READ THIS FIRST

SALLY JEROME, 20, is the mainstay of her family. Her father had run away. Besides Sally there are the twins, BEAU and MILLIE, aged 21. Millie, the family beauty, is always losing her jobs when employers "get gay" with her.

Sally works at home in the mornings, for her mother is a semi-invalid. In the afternoon she works for MR. PEEVEY, an elderly eccentric, who does a small mail-order business in Chauncy street. TED SLOAN lives with his mother in the flat below the Jerome flat in Hemenway street. When he tries to make love to Sally she pulls him up short. Sally sees a handsome man in the elevator. She learns that he is John Nye, with an office across the hall. Ted proposes to Sally, but she promises her motler not to wed him. Sally tells Millie that Nye needs a stenographer. Sally's funds are nearly gone. Ted again talks marriage. Ted calls again, arriving just as Millie's "sweetie" — named Davidson—arrives to take her out for the evening. Beau works in a bank and Sally wonders where he gets all the money he has had lately. John Nye tells Sally he will employ Millie, but that he prefers Sally.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER XIV.

LATE that afternoon John Nye came into Mr. Peevey's office to ask Sally how her sister could be reached on the telephone. And by the time Sally got home at half past six, Millie was busy making her preparations for work the next day.

She was in the bedroom throwing one after pair of soiled silk stockings out of the clothes-closet. On her bed was a little heap of rumpled ribbons, collars and cuffs, and tiny dark underthings.

"I'm just collecting all my dirty clothes," she explained looking up brightly as Sally came into the room. "Nye's back in town and wants me to be on the job tomorrow morning. So I wondered if you'd rinse out these few things for me after supper."

"All right. I have some stockings of my own to do anyway," promptly replied the ever-willing Sally. "A few more things won't make much difference."

"I'd do them myself," drawled Millie, "Only I promised Jim Davidson I'd go for a drive with him after we had supper."

Sometimes Millie spoke of her Mr. Davidson as "Jim," and just as often she called him "John." She had great numbers of men friends whom she family never had seen, and it was no wonder that she couldn't keep their names straight in her mind.

She was always talking about this

Rex Ingram Now Moslem; to Go Into Wilderness

London, Nov. 30 (I.N.S.).—Deserting prosaic business affairs for a life of mysticism, Rex Ingram, famous American film producer, has turned Moslem and is living in an oriental mansion at Nice, surrounded by a body guard of Arabs, said the Daily Express today.

Ingram, according to the newspaper, is living a life of Oriental luxuries, such as might be imagined by the fertile brain of a scenario writer. For the present he is devoting himself to sculpture of the "fatalist type" and has just completed a large bronze, showing a miniature of Christ in the arms of a giant Buddha.

Ethel Barrymore Colt, friend of Ingram and, according to the Daily Express, he has bought a villa in northern Africa, where he plans to live beyond the touch of civilization. His studio at Nice, which is so large that several films could be made in it simultaneously, is said to have been rented to another producer.

SLEMP AT HUB RUM SENTENCE CONFERENCE

Homes of Pity Hoping Santa Claus Will Fill Their Wants

AGAIN HALT BOOTLEG'S SENTENCE

Following a conference in the Federal Building, in which C. Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolidge, participated, announcement was made today that reinvestigation of sentence on Patrick A. McDonnell, David Segal and J. Harry Brown, convicted of running liquor at Swampscott, had been postponed until Dec. 12.

This was the second postponement since the appeals of the defendants to the Circuit Court of Appeals was denied, the first having taken place Monday after the vice-president of a Boston bank appeared in McDonnell's behalf.

Present at the conference today in addition to Mr. Slemp, were Judge James M. Morton, Asst. U. S. Atty. John V. Spaulding, an attorney named Burke from Washington, another named Goode from Chicago, and counsel for the defendants.

The reopening of sentences had been set for today, but the lawyers said that they represented financial interests in Washington and Chicago and that motions for foreclosure involving several hundreds of thousands of dollars in which their clients and McDonnell were interested, were imminent, and it was essential for McDonnell to be present while the foreclosure negotiations were going through.

Prosecutor Spalding agreed that the arguments supported their plea for a postponement and left it to the court to fix a date.

McDonnell, a former Boston hotel proprietor; Segal, whose home is in Chelsea, and Brown of Lynn, were convicted of running liquor at Clarkson Point near the former Sumner White House. They were sentenced, McDonnell receiving a year and a day and a $2,000 fine, and all three are jailed.

DOG SNAPPING AT PUPILS IS KILLED BY POLICEMAN

More than half a hundred boys and girls pupils of the Achenbach Grammar School, Park avenue, Revere, were greatly excited on their way to school today when a large St. Bernard dog ran amuck in Bartoll avenue, and charged through them, snapping at first one, then another.

Patrolman Sweeney pursued the dog to Woodlawn Cemetery, where he shot it.

Girl Will Wed for Cash to Pay Father's Debts

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.)—A miner's daughter in Frackville, Pa., in a letter to the New York American today, offers to marry anyone who will give $9,000 to her debt-ridden father to keep him from losing his home.

"I am a girl of 18 years of age," she writes. "I work in a factory to help my parents out. My parents are in debt up to their necks. My father is a miner. He works hard, but he does not get enough to feed and clothe his family. He owes for the house. He owes the stores for food."

She then lists some of the debts, the greatest of which is a mortgage for $7,000 on the home.

She gives her name as Miss Mary Lavasko and her address 101 Line street, Frackville, Pa.

INCORRIGIBLE BEGGAR, SHAW CALLS ERIN

London, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—George Bernard Shaw, in an article in the Yorkshire Evening News today, seems likely to have laid the foundation for a first-class controversy with his fellow Irishmen.

Commenting on an appeal to America to better the condition of the children of Dublin, the dramatist declared that Ireland "is perfectly well able to feed and clothe her children if she chooses."

He expressed confidence in the ability of his native land to take care of its own waste but, in doing so, referred to Erin as "an incorrigible beggar."

BORN IN DUBLIN.

Shaw was born in Dublin 71 years ago but has been a resident of London for more than 40 years.

"Judge Henry Neil has visited my native town of Dublin," Shaw wrote, "and he is very properly ashamed of the conditions of the children there. He asks me to second his appeal to America to send, I forget how many thousand pairs of shoes and stockings, to clothe them.

"But my advice to America is not to send a single cent to Ireland ever again for shoes or anything else. Ireland is perfectly well able to feed and clothe her children if she chooses.

ONLY A BEGGAR.

"It is a mistake to suppose she is poor.

"She is only an incorrigible beggar, which is not the same thing.

"She persuades you that except for a corner of Ulster, where a handful of bigoted enemies of hers build ships and make linens, she's penniless. Don't believe her.

"The trade of the Irish Catholic south in butter, cattle and agriculture generally represents far more money than the shipyards and mills of Belfast."

U. S. CANNOT WORK WITH SECURITY COMMITTEE

Geneva, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The United States cannot co-operate in the labors of the special security committee, Hugh R. Wilson, American delegate to the preparatory disarmament commission, told the commission today.

FILES BILL TO LURE AUTOISTS TO BAY STATE

To attract vacationists and tourists to Massachusetts Senator Henry L. Kincaide of Quincy, in a bill filed today at the State House, proposes to lift all restraint on non-resident pleasure automobiles. The bill is heartily approved by Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin.

At present the motor vehicle of a non-resident may be operated in Massachusetts so long as the non-resident's own state allows Massachusetts cars to operate without registration.

"However, if the non-resident owner takes up a place of residence or of business in Massachusetts for 30 days he is required to register his car here," says Senator Kincaide.

"My bill allows the non-resident to operate without a Massachusetts registration, even though he takes up a place of residence here for not more than six months, and does away with the provision that Massachusetts would only give these privileges to a resident of an outside State if that State gave similar privileges to residents of Massachusetts.

FORD TO BUILD N. E. CHURCH

Henry Ford plans to build a church in Sudbury, according to William Taylor, one of the representatives of the Detroit auto magnate.

Ford wishes the projected church to be built on the design of the First Congregational Church of Christ in Bradford, considered by architects to be one of the most beautiful churches of its kind in the country.

Wrecked Crew Reaches Hub

Capt. Augustus D'Entremont and 17 men of the crew of the schooner fisherman Governor Ashwell, wrecked Monday off Scatt's Island, Nova Scotia, reached Boston today on the steamer Prince George.

NEED EVEN FOR WARM CLOTHES

An unemotional, world-weary newspaper writer underwent the alarming experience of real tears when his eyes fell upon the following letter:

"Dear Goodfellow: I am 13 years old. My name is Thomas M—. I have spine trouble. I just went to school this year after two years in a cast. My father doesn't work very steady, and it makes it hard for my mother to take care of us all, as we have six children in the family.

"We all need underclothes, and I needs shoes, so please help us, and make me happy for Christmas, as it will be the first Christmas I walked around without any kind of a frame on my body for nine years."

We all need underclothes!

Imagine a little chap who can visualize a happy Christmas as a result of the gift of such an everyday thing as underwear!

A WIDOW'S PLEA

It is going to be a great privilege for some Goodfellow to gladden this little boy's Christmas Day, the first Christmas when his little body is free from the steel grip of surgical apparatus.

The next letter on the pile is from a widow who has a little boy of 13.

"We live in two attic rooms," she says. "I have nothing to live on except eight dollars that I get from the City, and it is awfully hard for me to think of getting a Christmas dinner. So if you would please try and get some clothes for my boy. He had to wear my shoes to school all last week because he didn't have any shoes."

A brave lad to face the jeers of his schoolmates, wearing his mother's shoes to school in those ignominious days of 1927.

A CHILD WRITES

Now look. Here's a letter that ought to be printed in full. It's from a little Boston girl.

"Will you please try to make my mamma happy Christmas? I can see that we will not be happy unless someone helps us. We had a stew for Thanksgiving, but it was better than nothing. My little brother and sister have no underwear or stockings. We don't care about toys if we are warm and have enough to eat.

"If you help us, I will say a prayer for the one that reads this letter. I will be watching on my doorstep for you the day before Christmas. Don't tell my mamma I wrote this letter. I want to surprise her. Please don't forget. My brother is 4 and my sister is 5 and I am 12."

The plan of the Goodfellow Club in brief is to enable you to be your own Santa Claus. Write to the Goodfellow Editor and tell us what you would like to provide for a little family on Christmas. Indeed, if you wish, the section of the city or the neighborhood where you would like to make your offering. Out of many letters of appeal received and investigated, one will be selected which you can follow up.

RUBY DEMANDS AN APOLOGY

City Councilor Israel Ruby of Ward 14 today demanded a public retraction by Louis M. Alexander of Arthur street, Dorchester, of charges before the Finance Commission that Ruby received $250 for street improvements.

Ruby declared he had never taken a dishonest dollar in his life, and said the "preposterous" charges were inspired by disappointed political opponents and by the fact he had supported for the House an opponent of Alexander, and refused to help the latter get a slaughterhouse license.

Ruby pointed out that he was not permitted to attend the Finance Commission hearings dealing with alleged graft in connection with street improvements, or question witnesses.

PLOT TO SLAY REMUS BARED

Cincinnati, Nov. 30 (I.N.S.).—A plot to kill Captain George Remus was "tipped off" to him by John Rogers, a St. Louis reporter, John R. Marshall, former Assistant United States Attorney General, testified on the witness stand today at the trial of Remus for the murder of his wife, Imogene.

This was in December, 1925, when Marshall was prosecuting the Jack Daniels liquor case in Indianapolis, which resulted in the conviction of a score of more persons. Remus was a government witness and was under Marshall's supervision for three weeks. Remus owned 60 per cent. of the distillery.

"I got the tip from Rogers by long distance telephone, from St. Louis," Marshall testified. "I was stopping at the Claypool Hotel in Indianapolis at the time."

'CLEAN HANDS' WELL RECEIVED AT COPLEY

E. E. Clive continues to make local theatrical history at the Copley. Having got into the habit of giving first performances to local theatre-goers, he came forward yesterday afternoon, with the assistance of an able company, in the first production on any stage of "Clean Hands," by Ian Hay, an English author and playwright, who has served Clive generously on other occasions.

Known here principally as writer of light comedy, Hay has attempted in "Clean Hands" a more serious effort, as he explained in a curtain speech to a friendly audience after a highly successful performance. With occasional smart lines to relieve the tension of drama, the play told the story of an unhappy marriage about to end duly in the divorce courts when a queer twist of fate intervened.

The love motive was more than triangular altogether, four men were involved with the same woman, and in addition, one of the four had entangling alliances with other women. In the end the first marriage was more or less patched up, but the solution could hardly be called a happy one.

The play showed evidences of skilled craftsmanship, with situations well worked up and characters finely drawn. The coincidence of two brothers in love with the same woman and one of them, mad with jealousy, ruining his brother's chance for happiness, was a bold stroke, to say the least.

Much of the success of the opening performance must have been due to careful preparation. Acting was remarkably smooth, without the customary hesitation one expects on such occasions. Gaby Fay came off with chief honors by means of an excellent characterization of the wife.

These busy people send articles after articles announcing the beginning of a new broadcast, the beginning of a six-hour, etc. Following our usual policy of starting something new we announce going into business to announce the ending of certain and well-known broadcasts in answer of our publicity will be as follows:

"Rollo McGinnis, winner of last year's popularity cup in the shippers' division of Rollo's Rolls Keep them Rolling Inn, announces that the big weekly presentation which played every week despite the lack of any audience at all will finally stop next week.

It is asserted that three or four cripples whose diets are stuck on WHEEZE which station will omit the Rollin Bones' quartet will feel a new lease of life. Mr. McGinnis announces furthermore that since they started these broadcasts they have had to discharge about half the help and close down three ranch factories.

Gene Bookcase and the Fitting Girls will assist at the final broadcast of the "Happy Homes Furniture Company" through the smallest chain of stations ever to perpetuate such monstrosities. Gene, who is president of the Emaciated order of Undertakers and Morticians, will be master of ceremonies. As the broadcast will depart from its usual policy and be interesting it is expected a couple of dozen people will listen to two numbers.

• • •

After several years of weekly broadcasts, the Whoosit Company, makers of Whoosit apartment house speaking tubes, will stop broadcasting with an enormous and expensive array of talent. Paul Revere, Mary Pickaboone, Bob Lewis, Henry Hudson, Queen Victoria, the Hot Head Harmonists, and the Utah Fan Whyers. It is expected that Chris Columbus will arrive in time to appear.

Football Moaning Too Much Of It Not Sporting

Fight at Last Fans Are Eager Two Good Kids

By NICK FLATLEY

RULES, NOT OFFICIALS, CAUSE GRID TROUBLE

Nick Flatley

THERE is entirely too much moaning about defeat these last few days. The corpse of football should have been wrapped in the cerements Saturday evening. Nothing exactly sporting about the wail that comes up from Worcester about that Boston College game. Captain Morley Drury of Southern California, tried to swallow a statement about being robbed against Notre Dame, but couldn't do it quickly enough.

All the lamentation in the world will not change a score. A team that gets whacked and takes it in silence is much more admired than the outfit that kicks and complains. Players and coaches make numerous mistakes in the course of a campaign. They resent furiously criticism of the same. They should give officials the same break.

The roaring, it is true, seldom comes from the players, no matter how they feel. But when the coach or the captain pops off, the whole team loses something in popularity. Holy Cross won the sincere admiration of 35,000 fans Saturday by making its brilliant drive after penalties and hard luck had handed the Eagles victory.

That defeat was a bitter pill, but it might well have been swallowed more quietly. Eddie O'Brien is far and away the best football official in the East. He knows more about the rules than the boys who write them. He always has and always will call penalties as he sees them.

All officials were instructed by the head of the works, Walter Okeson, to call everything. Clipping and a few other things had been overlooked here and there, and it was voted time to stop all minor infractions as well as major.

A good official has to call a foul when he sees it. Makes no difference when or where. The coaches, instead of yelling afterwards, should instruct their young athletes beforehand to avoid anything that might cause a halt when penalties meant trouble.

There are too many rules in football just now. But that's the fault of the committee; the officials have nothing to say about it. Football, except for the All teams and the new lineup of the coaches, should die quietly after the last pair of goal posts have fallen in the November dusk.

THE GRID GAME WILL BE PERFECT ONLY WHEN SOME COACH YELLS BECAUSE HIS TEAM WON ON AN UNFAIR DECISION. WE SHOULD LIVE THAT LONG.

Wonder what Billy Evans will say when his new manager starts yelling about the umpires. Dapper Wilham should make a great pessimist. But the league will miss him as an arbiter. He was one of the greatest.

BOSTON ring fans, anxious after a long vacation, will observe two of the niftiest young men in the business Friday night. Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champ, has none of the marks that generally go with his trade. He looks like a college kid, and talks that way.

He's a clever youngster, for he has had his share of fights and nary a scar tells the tale on his face. He's a flashy performer in the ring, combining a lot of knowledge with real cleverness.

Honeyboy Finnegan has been styled by a lot of the old boys as the greatest fighting lightweight the game has developed since McGovern and Evans and Young Corbett and that gang. He always puts up a great war and he has a lot of stuff. He shoots more punches than an old fashioned bar tender used to on Christmas eve, and he has the fighting heart.

The harder he's pasted, the better he likes the game, which is one of the answers to his steady success. He's always in shape, and with this row giving him his chance to go after the real lightweight crown he'll be fit to hand young Mister Morgan some very interesting moments.

The fight will set a modern Boston record, if it isn't called off by the time you are reading this.

Teaches Golf Course Building to Boys

By GEORGE W. GRIMM.

Boston in the future should have some very brilliant landscape architects if the enthusiasm of the Jamaica Plain High School class of landscape construction counts for anything.

A recent lecture was delivered there by Edward A. Connell, B. Sc., Massachusetts Agriculture College, '26, formerly golf architect in Chicago and the Middle West.

During the course of his lecture, Mr. Connell, who is established in Malden, explained the differences and ideas of laying out and building golf courses.

Jamaica Plain High School is one of the few schools in Greater Boston where the students are offered an opportunity in this sort of instruction.

Mr. Connell also has been engaged for the remainder of the season to go about the golf clubs of this section and deliver like lectures in the near future.

In relation to the designing of golf courses, Mr. Connell first gave the facts influencing course design, the conditions of the sun, wind, type of soil and general conditions of nature.

His next discourse was in steps of designing. This was followed by topographic survey, design of individual greens, design of hazards, irrigation and drainage. The types of seed to be used and planting were then explained.

By aids of blue prints and drawings he was able to explain more clearly to the youngsters the steps in construction, such as clearing land, plowing and seeding.

Maintenance of course, division of labor along with other things in the general principle of these above mentioned helped to keep the youngsters at attention.

Also in the course of instruction was the methods in financing, contracts, etc. Mr Connell then gave the general history of golf, along with pictures of the advancement of the famous Scotch game and the course of construction and advancemnt in the last dozen years.

Spadofora Named Melrose Captain

William Spadofora, star right end of the Melrose High eleven this past season, was today unanimously elected to lead the team in 1928.

The new captain is the lightest man on the squad, weighing but 135 pounds, yet he proved to be one of the best wings in school ranks during the campaign, starring in every game and winning place on the Boston Evening American's second all-star team.

He succeeds Richard Means, who will enter Harvard after he is graduated from Melrose High next June.

CORNELL SENDS APOLOGY TO PENN

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 30 (I N S)—Complete repudiation of an editorial appearing in the Cornell Daily Sun, undergraduate newspaper charging University of Pennsylvania players with undue roughness in the Cornell-Penn game on Thanksgiving Day was made today by Captain Harold Hoseleman of the Cornell team, Head Coach Gilmour Dobie, Louis P. Sear, president of the student council, and Graduate Manager of Athletics Romeyn Berry.

The editorial characterized the Penn players as roughnecks and the Cornell players as "athletes," and stated that Cornell does not care to engage an opponent who "shirks permits its representatives to use foul means on the field of sports".

The Cornell committee sent telegrams to the Penn authorities stating that the editorial did not represent Cornell sentiment.

Yale Cub Crews Work Out Indoors

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 30.—Coach George Murphy of the Yale freshman crews today completed an indoor plan for organizing two eights for rowing in the gymnasium and selecting the crews from members of the 1927 football team who have been able to report for rowing this Fall, but who will be send dates for the class crews this Spring.

The eights were picked as follows: First Eight: Bow, T. Tuttle, No. 2, E. A. Burnett, No. 3, R. J. Wright, No. 4, J. M. Tatum, No. 5, J. F. Adams, No. 6, P. L. Ayres, No. 7, T. B. Fabey, stroke, P. W. Pengra.

Second Eight: Bow, J. C. Talbot, No. 2, H. Hill, No. 3, D. C. Jones, No. 4, F. W. Perry, No. 5, E. A. Hitchcock, No. 6, F. W. Berry, No. 7, C. W. Lockyear, stroke, P. H. Porter.

The substitutes picked are R. L. Sayre, W. B. Hill, J. C. Wilcox, G. M. Henderson and T. T. Hare.

Felsch of "Black Sox" Held for Grand Jury

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 30 A P)—A charge of prohibition law violation has been brought by federal agents against Oscar (Happy) Felsch, one of the Chicago Black Sox expelled from organized baseball following the scandal of 1919.

Arraigned before a federal commissioner, Felsch was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bail.

Federal agents said they found a quantity of beer at a soft drink parlor of which Felsch acquired control three days ago.

15 FOREIGN STARS IN N. Y. SIX-DAY BIKE RACE

New York, Nov. 30.—Eight nations will be represented in the forty-third international six-day bicycle race which starts in Madison Square Garden Sunday night at 9 o'clock. There are fifteen foreign stars listed to compete and an equal number of Americans.

The riders will continue training for the next three days and will then call a halt on Friday, when all equipment will be taken into the Garden.

Officials Deny U.S.C. Was Robbed of Game

Chicago, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The touchback play of the Notre Dame southern California football game last Saturday has added another controversial chapter to the colorful history of Soldier Field Stadium, scene of record-breaking crowds and the "long count" given Champion Gene Tunney.

The Southern Californians, when they landed home yesterday, were quoted as saying that the play should have been called a safety, which would have given them an 8 to 7 victory over Notre Dame. Instead the touchback decision of Umpire John Schommer, former University of Chicago star, sent them westward with a 7 to 6 defeat.

The little Notre Dame quarterback, Hoyt, intercepted a Trojan pass near his goal line, but was tackled and lost the ball which was recovered back of the Notre Dame goal by three Trojans. Schommer called it a touchdown on the ground that Riley had not gained control of the ball before a hard tackle made him fumble.

Major John L. Griffith, Western Conference athletic commissioner, several Big Ten football officials and others sports authorities agreed with Schommer's decision, but there were also those who maintained that Riley held the ball in his hands long enough to say he had control of it. All agreed he had not driven it right in his arms before it flew out of his grasp as the tacklers hit him.

Schommer's statement on the play after the game was: "I was within a few yards of Riley when he intercepted the southern California pass. I never was more on top of a play in my life. I saw him grab the ball, juggle it and lose it when tackled. The rules say that before a ball may be considered to be fumbled the player must have had possession and control. Riley did not have possession and control. I couldn't rule that he fumbled. A touchback was the only interpretation that I could make."

Schommer said that Field Judge Jack "Pinkey" Griffith, a Pacific Coast Conference official, agreed with him on the ruling.

B. U. COACH TO USE 10 MEN

With the opening game of the season scheduled with Bowdoin at the Arena on December 7, Dr. "Chippie" Gaw, coach of Boston University hockey team, has announced that he intends to concentrate his work on only 10 men, seven of whom are regulars.

At present he considers this season's group of candidates the best that he has ever had report to him

The doctor, mindful of health, says:—

"I advise HARD COAL"

"No fumes, no constant monotonous whir or hum to irritate nerves—nothing to get out of order with chilly delays waiting for the repairmen."

"Hard coal is out of the experimental stage. Hard coal heaters have been developed to a degree of efficiency that is a marvel. No moving parts—a minimum of attention—and healthful, uniform heat always."

"I use it in my house, and I recommend it for yours."

Your coal dealer will gladly send an expert—trained in the domestic heating course conducted by the Mine Owners—to tell you how to get more heat for less money. His services are free. He has nothing to sell.

ANTHRACITE —Safe—Clean —Dependable

Have you ever had the soot removed from your heater by vacuum process? It multiplies the efficiency of the heater. Ask your dealer about it.

SCHOLASTIC CHATTER

By Joe Cashman

THE physical directors and hockey coaches of the Boston schools will meet tomorrow evening to complete plans for the coming ice season. The famous Morning Glory circuit will operate again, but the season will be considerably shorter than in past years, and it is expected that the boys will have more opportunity to play at the Arena than in the past, when they were compelled to get in their games between the hours of six and nine on Saturday mornings. It is hinted that Joe Green of South Boston will be named to succeed Ed Wilson of English High as director of the league.

Everett is going to participate in hockey on a big scale this year. The team has joined the Suburban League and expects to make a good showing. Coach Dinny Gildea will call out candidates just as soon as rink, which is being constructed on the Everett High School field, is completed. If Dinny is as successful as a hockey mentor as he is a football coach, the Everett seniors ought to win a title its first year out.

There is still talk about the Everett eleven being a long trip to play a post-season game but no offers have been received. Unless a few arrive in the very near future the Red warriors will put their togs away for good.

Now that Peabody and Winthrop have decided not to play off for the North Shore League title, Amesbury and Winchester should have the field to themselves next Saturday.

Amesbury went through its regular season undefeated and untied, winning nine games and scoring 230 points to its opponents' 70. The team claims the Class E championship of Northeastern Massachusetts.

The post-season clash is carded to take place in Amesbury, but so much interest is being manifested in it throughout the Merrimack Valley that it may be played at the Haverhill Stadium to accommodate the crowd.

• • •

The selection of Johnny O'Connor as captain of next season's Malden High eleven was a popular one. The lad, a younger brother of Eddie O'Connor, star Malden tackle of last year and captain of this season's Dartmouth freshman eleven, starred in nearly every game, and the fans feel that he is deserving of the captaincy.

• • •

Two of the best schoolboy hockey players in the Morning Glory circuit last season will be candidates for the B. C. freshman six this year. We refer to Tom Carey, former captain and forward of the B. C. High team, and Johnny Marr, star goal guardian of the English High outfit.

GREEN ALUMNI SIX IS STRONG

Harvard graduates have always held high rating here as hockey players. It has been the general impression that no other college could gather an alumni team that could equal the power of former Crimson stars.

The Dartmouth graduates have challenged Harvard's right to [illegible] distinction and the team will settle the issue at the Arena Thursday night, December 8 when they furnish the hockey feature at the Olympic Ice Carnival.

To see George Owen leading another Harvard team in action should prove a big magnet. On paper however, Ted Learned's Dartmouth alumni team appears just as powerful. So that when these teams clash next week hockey fans are going to see some high class amateur hockey played.

Members of the United States Olympic Figure team are practising daily for the Arena Olympe event which will be their last appearance before they compete in the Olympics at St. Moritz, Switzerland in February.

The receipts of this carnival, the most elaborate ice event ever staged in Boston, will be used to send the United States skaters to the Olympic games.

LITTLE PLACES 3 ARMY MEN ON ALL-TEAM

West Point a football team won three places in the nominations for 1927 All-American fame by Lou Little, head coach of Georgetown's high scoring team.

Little's choices follow.

EVANS IS STRONG FOR HARRIS

New Boss of Indians Willing to Pay Big Price to Get Bucky as Pilot

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor.

New York, Nov. 30.—Cleveland, far from having abandoned the project, has renewed its attempt to wean Stanley Harris away from Washington as its player-manager for 1928, even to the extent of informing Clark Griffith that he may write his own ticket on the player exchange.

I don't even know that he has become interested, anyway, merely that the Indians have some interesting specimens in their outfit, including Shi and Levsen, pitchers; Joe Sewell, shortstop, and Jamieson, the outfielder. Griffith could and would use either of the pitchers or Sewell, or both, if he could get them without taking the worst of it in a trade.

STILL GOOD FRIENDS.

Of course, he has a manager now who won two pennants and finished well up in his four years with the Senators; still, a manager and player who wants to go elsewhere in one who might as well start immediately as a more or less sensible measure among those particularly concerned. Harris and the Washington fans seem to have become estranged during the last 12 months, but not Harris and Griffith. They are excellent business friends, according to available advices.

If Griffith did agree to the transfer, it would be likely to include several players of both clubs, since neither is going anywhere regardless of what they may do.

This information came to hand today from a most intimate source, as did the further statement that Harris had come to Griffith to ask for the transfer to Cleveland, providing it could be equably arranged.

Ava Bradley, newly installed head of the Indians, was in New York today but his visit, I am informed, had no bearing on the Harris matter. The latter, in fact, is understood to have come to a head, not through Bradley, but as a result of the election of Billy Evans, American League umpire, as vice-president and business manager of the club.

EVANS LIKES HARRIS.

Evans, now the active charge d' affairs in Cleveland at a salary of $15,000 a year plus 5 per cent. of the receipts, has made no secret of his admiration for Harris' managerial ability. Given his choice of the fifteen managers now operating in the major leagues, it is understood that Evans would name Harris without a second look.

That he doesn't actually dislike the young man, anyhow, is made evidence by the price he is willing, and in fact, must pay

Pirates Get Best of Cuyler Trade, Says Consensus

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.)—The consensus of opinion of baseball managers and critics of the national pastime about the metropolis is that Joe McCarthy, manager of the Chicago Cubs, outsmarted himself in trading "Spark's" Adams and Pete Scott to the Pittsburg Pirates in exchange for "Kiki" Cuyler.

"I think the Pirates got all the better of the deal," said John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants. "Adams is a dangerous ball player, always getting on base, and with a hard hitting team like the Pirates behind him, he will bother pitchers more than ever. There is a question whether Cuyler is as good as he used to be. He failed in the pinches many times last season."

"The Pirates seem to have received a lot for nothing," Ed Barrow, general manager of the New York Yankees said. "They have outfitted themselves where they needed help and where a glaring weakness developed in the World Series, and they lost no strength because they would not use Cuyler."

George Stallings, former "Miracle Man" of the Boston Braves in 1914 and new manager of Montreal in the International League, thought Pittsburgh got all the worst of the deal. "They gave him away," he said. "I could have got a ball club for him and players beside."

PASSING THE PUCK
By Bill Grimes

If the Boston Tigers fail to come through against Philadelphia tonight, the boys will have a good alibi. The squad left here early this morning and will not arrive in the Quaker City until just before game time. No team can be expected to show at its best after a 350-mile jaunt.

Coach Ben Houser will bring his Bowdoin team to the Arena next week for a game against Boston University. Hockey has taken on well throughout the State of Maine colleges, but as the Black and White has not been on ice this season the Terriers should have an easy time disposing of Bowdoin.

"Sonny" Manning, the spare right winger of the Tigers will bear watching. This kid is a fighter and plays the game every minute he is on the ice. Manning is a husky built chap, who is capable of taking care of himself when the going is rough.

According to the rumors around the Arena, Billy Coutu, who was suspended from hockey for an assault upon Jerry Dilworth after the final Stanley Cup game, has started where he left off last spring. Coutu got himself tangled up with Dave Chaplell of Philadelphia down in New Haven and the former Victoria player lost five teeth. Then Wally Elmer was called by cut and Coutu was charged with the assault.

Jerry Wiggett, who [illegible] game, stated, in his report, that he did not see Coutu and Chaplell mix it up, claiming that they were [illegible]. However, he did admit that he gave Coutu a minor penalty. Why the minor?

Unless Frank Fredrickson is given a rest he will be of little use to the Bruins for some time to come. Fredrickson suffered a badly bruised shoulder about ten days ago and this injury was aggravated when Leo Reise of the Americans stepped into Fredrickson last Saturday night. Handicapped as he is, Fredrickson cannot handle a stick and being unable to protect himself is left open to a more serious injury.

Referee Billy Bell gave the Bruins a laugh when he tried to award the Rangers a goal last Sunday night because he thought that Harry Connor had tripped Bill Cook. Dr. O'Leary came to Bell's rescue and trouble was avoided.

Already the protests are beginning to trickle in regarding the inefficiency of the off-side. The failure of one referee to post himself on the new rules opens the way for an avalanche of protests from Providence. The new rules call for quick decisions and quicker skating, and there is no place for the slow thinkers and the slow skaters.

When a N. H. L. club farms out a player of Earl Robinson's calibre it is a mild sign that the club is strong. Robinson is the property of the Montreal Maroons, but he was sent out for a season in the Canadian-American League, having been loaned to the Philadelphia Arrows. Robinson is the best looking forward that has ever graced the roster of the O-A organization.

The Intercollegiate Hockey Association has adopted the Ontario Hockey Association rules. Forward passing and kicking of the puck is allowed in the defending zone only.

Goldstein Seeking Flyweight Crown

Harry Goldstein of the West End, one of the leading flyweight boxers of the country, is ready to start a drive for the flyweight crown. The crown, Goldstein, his manager, Jim Toland and numerous others, believe belongs to Boston's native son.

Goldstein, a mere slip of a kid, never weighing over 112 pounds in his life, is one of the leading contenders for the title vacated by La Barba. He is well able to box, has a great head and should never have worry about outgrowing the flyweight class.

There is one thing that caused great disturbance with Goldstein and his manager, Jim Toland, who handles a very modern gymnasium here in this city. There are few if any boxers in the class that desire to clash with the Boston boy.

Little Harry started his ring career seven years ago when but 14 years of age. At that time Goldstein, the son of a West End shoemaker and himself a bootblack dashing about the busy Boston streets, got his start in the amateur ring.

FIGHTS FOR LIVING.

It happened that Goldstein, due to his size and slight frame was picked on by the older lads who made their vacation days happy by polishing up the boots of pedestrians here and there.

Harry says, "Nobody wanted to give me a break, so I decided if I was going to get along and make a living, I should have to fight.

"I didn't see why I should be chased off the sidewalks and other places where a bootblack pips his trade. After taking a few lessons with friends, I found out that I could box a little mixer.

It was only a short while before Goldstein started his drive as one of the leading amateur boxers in this section of the country. Owing to his age he was forced to go battle under assumed names.

Going into the money chasing and of the boxing sport, Harry has done very well, winning over some of the best boys available. On the other hand, those he has not met are keeping out of his reach.

One of Goldstein's most impressive victories in the ring was that over Ernie Jarvis of England, Jarvis, who was European champion, had all he could do to weather the assault of Goldstein's gloves.

Having given Jarvis a proper boxing lesson the National Boxing Board wants to recognize Jarvis and Genaro as the two contending fly weights.

AFTER FLYWEIGHT CROWN.

Just three weeks ago Billy Kelley of Scranton, Pa., gave Genaro a lacing and was awarded the verdict. This same Kelley was defeated by Goldstein. Bill Goldstein has a tough time being recognized as one of the top-notchers in the flyweight division.

Other good lads in the division that Goldstein has got decisions over are Frenchie Berlanger and Newsboy Brown, which lads by the way, are clamoring for the much coveted title.

A defeat that Goldstein has suffered at the hands of Tommy Hughes of Detroit in the tournament held under the auspices of the California boxing commission, was no surprise. Goldstein was a mighty sick lad the day he fought the Detroit boxer. The local flyweight just barely weighed 103.

California climate did not agree with the little Hebrew boxer, who should some day in the future wear the crown. Goldstein will be twenty-one next month, and Jim Toland is going to start after the other claimants to the flyweight crown.

ITALIAN FLASH TRAINS HARD

Giovanni Vargarini is training hard for his finish bout with Dr Karl Sarpolis, the Lithuanian champion, at the Grand Opera House, Thursday night.

This will be the Italian's most important match since coming to Boston. If he is defeated he will be back to the small time stuff again, while if he wins, it will mean plenty of main bouts with good money attached.

Joe Burl Komar, who is stealing the stuff that orig nally belonged to Stanley Stasiak, will be back again meeting Jake Shaffer and Abe Kaplan on the same bout.

Mike Talechyan, Ukranian light heavyweight champion, will try to show the fans that he is a second Garkawienko, when he meets Charlie Platas in a one-fall matter.

Jack Odell of Woburn will meet Al Thomas, Syrian giant, in another match.

PYLE DENIES HE "FIRED" ENTIRE YANKEE ELEVEN

New York, Nov. 30.—Charles C. Pyle, managing owner of the New York Yankees football team, last night vehemently denied the report that he had "fired the entire Yankee team, with the exception of Red Grange, and was scouring around for another team with which to play the New York Giants next Sunday.

"It is true that I traveled my men," said Pyle, "because I thought they deserved criticism for losing the game to the lowly eleven the Providence Steam Roller.

KRAMER SURE HE'LL BEAT CHAPMAN

Danny Kramer, the Philadelphia southpaw, who will oppose "Red" Chapman in the main bout of the Suffolk A. A. tourney at the Arena next Monday night, taking the place of Chick Suggs of New Bedford, lost little time in getting down to strenuous training when he was offered the opportunity of meeting the Chelsea Hebrew.

Kramer, who began his boxing career as a Boston newsboy, has been quietly training at Hadley's Hayes' gymnasium for an important bout in Philadelphia when Matchmaker Tom Goodwin of the Suffolk Club sought his services.

Kramer, just returned from a triumphant tour of the Pacific Coast, where he won five successive contests, jumped at the opportunity.

"Chapman is one man I can lick," advanced the usually modest Danny. "Red doesn't seem to be able to fathom southpaws and if I hit him solidly there won't be much more fighting."

KRAMER IS DANGEROUS.

So, Chapman will have to exercise all his varied skill and ring generalship when he meets the Philadelphia southpaw. And nobody realizes the danger of running into one of those wicked left hooks of Kramer's more than Charley Cardio's charge.

In the other bout Johnny Sheppard and Jackie Donahue will meet and those who witnessed the former battle between the energetic feather weights will flock to the Arena in the anticipation of seeing a repetition of the hectic battle of a couple of months ago.

Sheppard gained a hair-line decision on that occasion, mainly through infighting, but Donahue has learned a lot about that style of milling since he met Sheppard and Suggs.

CLASSY PRELIMS.

The remainder of the scintillating program must necessarily produce fireworks, especially those six rounders between Joe Barlow, the heavy hitting Dorchester fight heavyweight, and Billy Grunsma of Worcester and Mud Hook Anderson recently discovered heavyweight sensation of Concord, N. H., and Tom Murphy of Somerville.

The flyweight opener between Wes Willis Woods, Scotch veteran, and Johnny Glenick of Lawrence, claimant to the New England title in the 112 pound class, should be a hurry cane affair, while the eight-round bout, with Harry Brignolt of Cambridge and Charley Donovan, arch-rivals, as the principals, should top-off with action.

Jack Dempsey to Write Sensational Expose of Tunney Fight

The greatest sports feature of the decade starts in the Boston Evening American next Monday.

It is Jack Dempsey's own inside story of his second and last bout with Champion Gene Tunney in Chicago, with especial emphasis on that sensational "long count" seventh round.

"Let the chips fall where they may," is Dempsey's attitude in his complete story of the fight.

Champion Tunney, sports writers, the referee, time keepers, and many spectators have already written their versions of that boxing thriller. And now comes the signed story about that so-called "long count" by one whom millions believe to be the "victim" of it—Dempsey himself.

Start this story in next Monday's Boston Evening American and continue it daily.

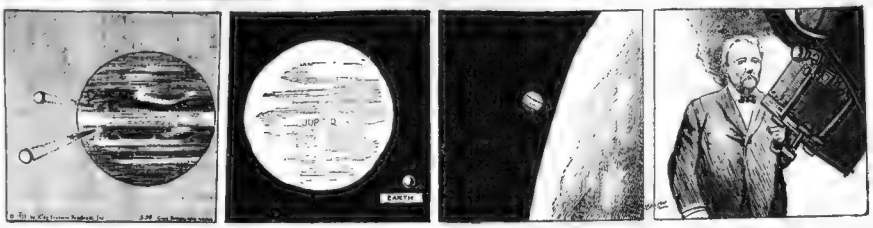
The Story of the Stars

(Jupiter, the Giant Planet)

By Garrett P. Serviss



The shadows of Jupiter's Moons are often seen as small ink-black circles on his face. Jupiter rotates so swiftly on his axis that day and night together last only ten hours. His dense clouds are drawn into vast belts across his surface.

Although he spins so swiftly Jupiter is more than 1,300 times as large as the Earth, in bulk. His diameter is to the Earth's as 11 to 1. The difference in size is illustrated graphically above. But Jupiter weighs only 318 times as much as the Earth.

When our little Moon, 2,100 miles in diameter, and 240,000 miles away occults (passes over) the giant Jupiter, 88,000 miles in diameter, but 400 million miles away, we see the magic power of distance to alter size. The large body above is the Moon.

The late E. E. Barnard, one of the greatest American astronomers, discovered the little fifth Moon of Jupiter. In 1892. Barnard's work in photographing the Milky Way stars and strange nebulous objects was almost revolutionary.

The Secret

The real secret of the surprising goodness of Heinz Oven-Baked Beans is that they really are baked in ovens, and like the best home-baked beans, are nut-brown, mealy and digestible, with a flavor that brings the plates back for more.

Beans that aren't oven-baked can't be labelled "baked". For truly baked beans look for the Heinz label that says "Oven-Baked" - The taste is the test.

Sees Great Danger of Overdoing Vitamines

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association

THE great danger to you and to everybody that comes from promulgating a new scientific truth is that you, like everybody, are liable to become a crank on the subject. That simply means that there is a tendency to accept the new truth without reference to its due proportions or its normal relations.

It seems regrettable, for instance, that psychologists and biochemists should have concentrated their attention so exclusively on the accessory food factors known as vitamins. As far as the mouth and teeth, at least, are concerned, the other factors (such as acids, cellulose, etc.) are in practice very much more important, because in civilized countries hardly any food is eaten which is so poor in vitamins as to cause any specific trouble.

Rohman bred rats on food especially purified of vitamins and not only kept them in health, but nourished them sufficiently to enable them to produce young. Sir Gowland Hopkins, who perhaps used more carefully purified food found that rats would not thrive on it, but yet that when they were given a very small daily allowance of milk, only 4 per cent. of the food eaten, their growth became normal and continuous. Sufficiency is better than excess, and we might infer from this that we should do better if 33 per cent. of our food were vitamin free! Seriously, however, if less than 4 per cent. of a food like milk will restore an-mo to health, it must need even less to prevent them losing their health. The inference is that we talk and think far too much about vitamins and probably eat too much of them as well.

Wallace tells us (London Lancet) that except for the diseases known as scurvy, rickets and [illegible] no practical importance to the teeth, as all food teeth are certainly now caused by a deficiency of vitamin A.

A few years ago it was certainly accepted that rickets was caused by a deficiency of fat soluble A vitamin. This has been disproved by the discovery of vitamin D, which is said to be formed in the skin by the action of sunlight. Now even vitamin D is decreed to [illegible] It is [illegible] widely believed that [illegible] a positive [illegible] of insoluble starches [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

The LOVELORN

CHAPTER 26

A SOUND of footsteps outside, the sound of the door being tried. It was open and Ernest stepped in. His eyes lighted on Georgie.

A smile leaped to his face, a smile that had something cruel in it. He moved toward her as if to take her in his arms. Then he saw Mrs. Mountford and stopped short.

He pursed up his lips as if to whistle, and the smile vanished.

"Well?" he asked angrily.

Mrs. Mountford gave him a nod. "I hope you're in a good temper, Ernest."

"What do you mean by that?"

"I hope you're in a generous temper, let me say."

"Listen, I did my best for you last week—you had no right to come here. I don't want you here."

"I'm sorry. I shouldn't have intruded unless I had to."

"Well, say what you have to say then. Meanwhile Georgie, would you mind—" He ended in a gesture toward the door.

But Mrs. Mountford said quickly: "Oh, our interview isn't as private as all that. In fact I'd rather have her hear me."

"Well, what is it?" he demanded gruffly.

"It's about money, of course. I'm in difficulties again. I've got to have help."

"Well, you're not going to get it with me. I've done all I can. I can't afford any more."

He turned away but it was plain that his refusal wasn't final.

And Georgie, with a sinking feeling, was wondering why Mrs Mountford was asking Ernest for money, as if she had a right to ask him! Hurt pride and curiosity mastered her utterly. She was astonished to hear Mrs. Mountford saying in a satirical voice:

"It's very unfair to you Ernest not to explain to your charming young visitor—Therefore I might as well tell her myself that we—"

Ernest Brooks took a quick step towards her, but before he had reached her, she had ended smoothly

"—are relatives."

Ernest stopped, met her eyes with a long straight look. She drew at her lighted cigarette, still faintly smiling.

The explanation satisfied Georgie, even if it did not increase her liking for Mrs. Mountford. The latter was probably a distant cousin whom he had helped often, and who had abused his generosity. She had said she had certain claims upon him, and intimately aware of each other as they appeared to be, it was plain that not a spark of friendliness existed in their reationship.

Mrs. Mountford turned to Ernest: "And now I think you're perfectly willing to help me out, aren't you?"

"No, I'm not!" he answered angrily.

"What a pleasant person you are, Ernest!" she said.

"Why should I be pleasant? Did you ever give me any reason for being pleasant to you?"

"Perhaps. Perhaps I did once," she murmured.

Georgie thought of the story Mrs. Mountford and told her—the story of her love affair, before she had married. Had Ernest been she man? But no, she had said she was a relative of his! Georgie felt confused—she would find out everything sooner or later, however—she promised herself that!

From outside a faint echoin, voice can through the passages, a voice warning the visitors to leave the ship.

Mrs. Mountford rose and knocked out her cigarette.

"Hour that?" she said. "Sorry, but I've got to cut our little interview short. What can you do for me, Ernest?"

For a minute their glances met, and it was as if they exchanged some private message. Ernest Brooks seemed to yield. He drew out a slim black checkbook, and methodically recorded it.

"This is a hold-up," he said in a low voice.

"I told you I wouldn't stand for that sort of talk from you," she exclaimed.

"Well, you'll have to, if you expect me to pay—"

Mrs. Mountford's small fists were clenched. She was breathing hard. Her eyes were like coals.

"All right," she cried. "I wondered what you'd say to that—and I wonder what you've said to the fool girl."

For the second time the voice in the corridors warned all visitors to leave the ship. "Last call! Last call!"

But Mrs. Mountford did not seem to hear as she whirled to face Georgie

"This man," she snapped, "is my husband. That's why he isn't going to marry you. He wouldn't if he could, but he can't!"

Georgie stared, unable to speak, "But—but your name—"

Mrs. Mountford gave a short laugh. "I chose it myself," she said with a kind of wild flippancy. "Do you like it? . . . . Don't you believe what I've told you is true. Ask him. No, just look at him."

"It's a lie—don't believe her," Ernest Brooks wet his lips with his tongue. But he looked down, he looked up, he looked anywhere but at her. And Georgie knew, beyond questioning, that Mrs. Mountford had, after all, told her the truth.

At the same instant there rose upon the air the shrill, vibrating sound of the siren.

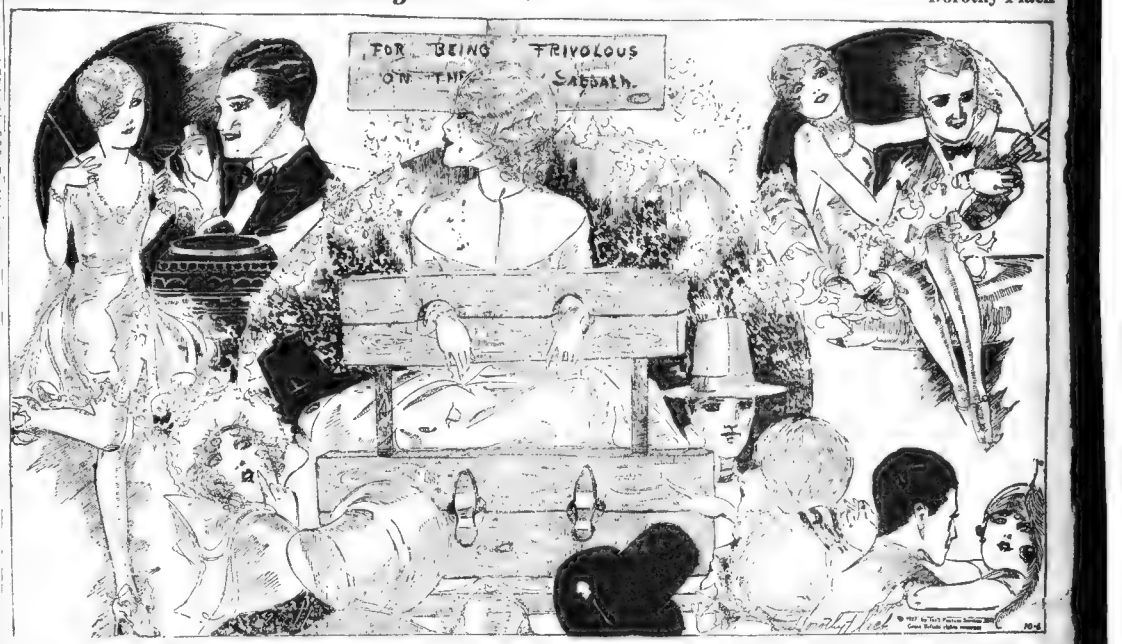
How Times Have Changed!

Grandmother's Manners and Our Own

DRAWN BY Dorothy Flack



NOWADAYS it's Sunday that every one looks forward to. It's a lovely day of freedom, and one plans the whole week through on just how to spend the day

For some folks it's a day of reflection, or maybe it's a jaunt to the beach, or perhaps it's a round of golf or a tennis game, or tea at the country club. Or then it may just be a good rest at home with the phonograph and a big wide porch where one looks at the moon and dreams of things one's too busy to think of during the week.

How different it was in Great Grandmother's time! She had to watch herself very carefully for it might take much to call down the wrath of the Lord. Every action must little thing had to be done so carefully, for if the Lord found out he'd the tallest thing that was thought frivolous, why you were sentenced to the stocks for an hour or a day or maybe two

"I think it's terrible for a girl to know so many men," Mrs. Jerome would complain every now and then. "And especially men that you never bring home for me to meet—When I was a girl I had one young man and I entertained him in my father's parlor!"

"Yes, and look where it's landed you! On the dump-heap!" Millie's soft little voice would answer her brutally, and that always ended the argument.

That night Millie came home from her automobile ride before ten o'clock, which was an unheard of hour for Millie to come home from anything. She often said that she didn't begin to really live until after

FABLES IN SLANG

Making Himself Strong

By George Ade

THE FABLE OF THE ROUNDABOUT WAY IN WHICH GILBERT MADE HIMSELF STRONG WITH ALICE—
ALICE AND GILBERT WERE ENGAGED. IT WAS A TAME EVERYDAY COLORLESS KIND OF COURTSHIP AND THAT IS WHY IT DID NOT SUIT ALICE—
SHE WANTED TO BE ENGAGED TO SOMEONE WHO WOULD CLIMB A ROPE-LADDER AND TRY TO KISS HER THRU A SCREEN-WINDOW GILBERT KNEW THIS, SO—
HE FIXED IT UP FOR HER. HE TOOK HER FATHER'S MONEY IN A POKER GAME AND GOT HIS FRIENDS TO RAP HIM AND SAY HE WAS A SPORT AND THAT HE HAD A PAST—
"THEY ARE TRYING TO SEPARATE US" SAID ALICE "BUT COURAGE, SWEETHEART, I WILL BE TRUE." GILBERT WROTE HER THAT HER FATHER THREATENED TO SHOOT HIM, BUT IF SHE LOVED HIM
TO PUT A LAMP IN THE WINDOW SO HE MIGHT LEARN HIS FATE! IT WAS A HAPPY NIGHT FOR ALICE. SHE MADE A LEAP FOR GILBERT AND GAVE HIM THE KIND OF RECEPTION HE HAD WANTED FOR SOME TIME!

HOW TO GET ON

Mr. Polo

My friends scorned me. They could chat gaily with the bootblack, but, alas, I knew no Greek. Finally, in desperation, I sent for "Egg's Easy Course in Greek."

One evening, a scant six years later, while dining with a group of friends at a quaint little pesk-easy, the waiter approached me and said: "Whatta will its be for you, Boss?" My friends were petrified with merriment. I heard Rosco whisper to Agnes: "He can't speak Greek. Listen—this will be rich."

Turning to the waiter and prolonging the suspense, I remarked: "I'll take spaghetti, ravioli and macaroni, Tony."

You could have heard a pin drop while I continued a conversation with the waiter, asking him how old he was and many other interesting questions. From that day I have been a social triumph, and I owe it all to "Egg's Easy Course in Greek!"

A teacher asked her class to write an essay on London. She was surprised to read the following in one attempt: "The people of London are noted for their stupidity." The young author was asked how he got the idea. "Please, Miss," was the reply, "it says in the textbook the population of London is very dense."

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

ONE of man's pet hobbies is the secret conviction that a woman just loves to worry!"

Well—perhaps he's right. But here's a reason! In one week, two women in New York City were shot and killed by two men, for failing to call said men in time for work. Wouldn't THAT worry you?

• • •

The mechanical alarm clocks did not go off; and the human alarm clocks were not on the job.

• • •

A woman has GOT to do a man's worrying for him, or he'll find out why!

Whether it's worrying about where he is nights or when he shall get up mornings; about what he'd like to eat or what he ought not to eat; about how he overworks or why he doesn't work harder, about when he should take his tonic or where he left his overshoes; about how to make him stay in the house or how to get him into heaven—it's all up to the woman!

Before marriage, he calls it "mothering" him; after marriage, he calls it "nagging" him. But he loves it! And if she stopped it, he'd call it "neglecting" him.

Up to his wedding-day, the average man can take perfectly good care of himself. He can find his own things, remember to have his hair-cut, always be on time at the office, keep his evening clothes pressed, write the weekly letter to his mother, and keep out of jail.

But from the moment he promises to "cherish" a woman, he apparently loses all his faculties; his memory, his sense of responsibility, and the physical strength to lift things after he has dropped them on the floor.

• • •

The truth is that a man just loves to be "worried about"—and a woman just loves to worry about him.

• • •

That is what they MARRY for!

Sure of Himself Now!

So Clean Inside, No Fear of Perspiration Offense, However Over-Heated

Once a person realizes the wonderful properties in cascara, no other laxative in the market would ever be considered.

It's no trick to "clean out the bowels." Dozens of things will do that. But a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as so much dew. The old-fashioned way was "salts." They get action but may take the mucous membrane along with the waste matter! Mineral oils are useless, but they leave the bowels with a film of poisons for the blood to carry off through the pores. But when you cascarize the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

If you have the habit of taking medicine for constipation, or even for auto-intoxication, stop it. For a candy cascaret is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them, and the taste tempts most grown-ups to have "more."

And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascaret tonight—see how you feel next day and for days after! With the skin fresh and fragrant. All druggists 10c and 25c.

"ANYTHING that gets results, was all the thought I ever gave to laxatives. In those days my perspiration was so acid, it used to rot my clothes. Then a doctor tipped me off to those wonderful little sweeteners—

THE WITTY SAYINGS OF MEDBURY

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

NOW that the weather is becoming chilly, thousands of college boys are getting their Winter wardrobe together. One student has cut down his expenses by rooming with a fellow who has an overcoat.

HE'S suffering from ulsters.

LAST year he kept warm by wearing a hot water bag for a vest.

HE built a bonfire in his B. V. D.'s.

HE used his uncle's wooden leg for fuel.

HE poured three bottles of hair tonic on his slicker. He was trying to raise a raccoon coat.

HE spent his last dollar for a pair of high boots. He was a Cambridge man and wouldn't wear Oxfords.

HE was studying to be a contortionist so that he could keep his feet in his pocket.

MRS. BETTY COHEN.
No. 38 Harvard street, Malden.

HE kept very comfortable during the cold weather by going around with a red-hot momma.

SHE'S the same girl who gives him a cold shoulder in the Summer.

HE'S a low-brow with a high blood pressure.

HE had to have his face lifted to keep it from dragging in the snow.

HE hates to get wet. He always carries an umbrella when he takes a shower.

HE even wears rubber gloves while washing his hands.

HE used to be the best dressed man in college until his roommate locked the bureau drawer.

HIS own wardrobe consisted of one garter and a corn plaster.

HE'S already worrying about what he's going to wear this Winter. The Klu Klux Klan tarred and feathered him last year, but he's beginning to insult.

Is Your Tongue Coated in the Morning?

A coated tongue is a danger signal! It's a sure sign of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. And it's a sign that you need Tanlac. This good old reliable medicine has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope. Read what Mrs. Dora Bedard, of Bellingham, Mass., R. F. D. 1, Box 17, says: "I had no digestion, nor appetite. Sick headaches laid me up in bed three days at a time. I couldn't even do light housework, to say nothing of cooking and washing in addition to the other work.

That coated tongue is you why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells. See how the first bottle of Tanlac helps you.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

700 P. C. PAID BY DIAMOND COMPANY

London, Nov. 19.—If the diamond business is bad one small African company seems not to have discovered the fact.

This company, African Selection Trust, Ltd., with a capital of only £87,500, not all issued, reports a profit the past year of £253,690, after all deductions. Its dividends for the year were 17s. 8d. on shares of 2s. 6d., or over 700 per cent.

Year before last African Selection Trust earned £138,451. It was organized only five years ago last August. Nearly all of its shares are owned by Consolidated African Selection Trust, Ltd., a three-year-old company. A. Chester Beatty, formerly a director of the Rhino Copper, is chairman of both companies. Sales of diamonds by these companies in the past year were £1,500,000 against £211,550 the year preceding. Ore reserves of the subsidiary are estimated to contain 900,000 carats, the importance of which is indicated by the world's diamond production in 1926 having been 6,640,190 carats.

Consolidated African Selection Trust's 5s par shares are quoted at 75s., on which price the dividend yield the past year was 12 per cent.

pint of gin, especially when you consider that truckloads of it are driven up and down the country by bootleggers that are "in right."

Moukhtar Bey, ambassador from Turkey, comes ashore and police guard him, fearing an Armenian attack. Armenians say Moukhtar killed $0,000 Armenians during the war. He says he did not.

In any case, Armenians should settle any personal quarrels away from American soil.

Another Turkish ambassador, the late Mavroyeni Bey, whom all Washington liked, replied to the charges of murdering Armenians as follows: "You talk about Armenians. Where are your red Indians? I see no red Indians. What did you do with them?"

In Buenos Aires yesterday Alexander Alekhine, Russian thirty-five years old, became world chess champion after the eighty-first move in the thirty fourth game. Jose R. Capa blanca, champion since 1921, was driven to the wall. Unfortunately, when you win championships at chess you don't do anything in particular. Intensive mental effort is used on non-productive work The man who can improve, however little, the efficiency of the radio is worth more to the world than all chess players.

Another pathetic detail, Alekhine will not be ready to play again until 1929, when he may play for a stake of only $10,000. That would amuse Jack Dempsey and Mr. Gene Tunney. They would not look at a chess board for a squared ring for as little as $10,000.

Algeria is suffering from rains that should make us ashamed to complain of our weather, rains that would cause even a modernist to admit that a Noah flood might be possible. Crops are wiped out by floods of water, in some places thirty feet deep. Twenty million dollars in damages were done to the country. Algeria, hundreds of square miles covered deep with sand and washed soil. Nature seems bent on breaking records for 1927.

At Geneva various nations talk about disarmament with the Russian Bear, possessor of one of the biggest armies, the most capacious animal in the international zoo.

While the nations talk about disarmament, the situation between Poland and Lithuania is worse than ever. We need flying machines. We have had plenty of peace talk.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON:
1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare favorably in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND:
1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Children Should Appreciate Their Schools

An Important Duty of Parents

Charles Hillebrandt, editor of the Gallup Herald, gives good advice to fathers and mothers of school children. He tells them that it is their duty to impress upon children the fact that the public school MEANS OPPORTUNITY FOR THE CHILD.

Too many articles, jokes and cartoons on the opening day of school give the impression that school is something to be feared, avoided, and that the happy days are days out of school.

School means everything to a child—opportunity, knowledge, the chance to get ahead in the world.

The Gallup Herald asks this question: "If Lincoln had only a dozen books and Garfield learned to read while leading a towpath mule, what can the child today do with present school equipment—if he really wants to?"

Within the limitations of the child's ability, based on heredity and environment, there is NO LIMIT to the opportunity that the public school gives.

The good that the schools MIGHT do, and SHOULD do, and the value of so many millions spent on public schools lose much of their effectiveness because of a wrong attitude toward schools in the minds of children.

They are allowed to feel that hours spent in school are hours in prison, instead of being what they really are, HOURS OF GLORIOUS OPPORTUNITY.

False ideas of children as to school life make the work of teachers harder. It is the duty of parents to make the child ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT THEIR SCHOOL.

A man might tell their children the story about a poor man he met the other day in the Albuquerque Journal. The man was arrested at the age of seventy for selling liquor. He was seventy but was not quite sure, for he had learned to read or write. Said he, "I had nobody to go to school, I never learned to read or write. I had a pair of shoes until I was twenty-two years old. Then they gave me a pair."

The man denied him and it is to his credit that he refused the offer, and that means [illegible]

Opinions are formed IN THE HOME, at the breakfast table and at the dinner table, by the conversation of the father and mother.

Enthusiastic talk devoted to other things, passing pleasures of various kinds, should be devoted to the SCHOOL, to the fact that without money and without price, in fine buildings well lighted and well heated, millions of children receive the education for which such men as Lincoln and others struggled in their childhood against hardship and discouragement.

TEACH YOUR CHILDREN TO APPRECIATE THE PUBLIC SCHOOL TO HONOR, RESPECT AND LOVE THEIR TEACHERS, AND TO BE GRATEFUL FOR THE FACT THAT IN GLORIOUS AMERICA KNOWLEDGE IS AS FREE AS LIGHT AND AIR.

Gasoline at 50 Cents

Yes, If Waste Continues

Mexico reports a plan of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to unite five of the greatest Mexican oil companies. Somebody ought to unite United States oil companies under Government control and advice, to prevent reckless squandering of the nation's oil supplies.

Today's 22,000,000 automobile owners in the United States will be increased to 40,000,000 before many years. Unless something is done to protect the oil supply they will find themselves paying fifty cents a gallon and more for gasoline.

Cavemen

Must Stop Beating Their Wives

After several hundred years a law has just been passed in England penalizing the offense of wife-beating, and several husbands have heard about it for the first time when marched off to jail. Naturally they are indignant. It has long been the recognized right of all Europeans to flog their wives—just to show their authority.

In the United States, although there is a law against it, no special statute is needed. It is too much a relic of the Dark Ages for a modern country to think of. At any rate, the average American wife is not the sort who could be beaten—not even at bridge whist—and few if any husbands are foolish enough to try it.

Russia in the Air

Uncle Sam Should Wake Up

This Government ought not to ignore the fact that Russia is building airships rapidly, organizing a group of 4,000,000 Russians interested in flying, and teaching flying in public schools.

It all might interest this nation some day. It should not be forgotten that the French revolution won victories far away in the heat of revolutionary enthusiasm.

Russia again might produce a man like Peter the Great, and instead of sending fighters on foot to Poland or Turkey, he might send them through the air to America. We have things worth getting that are not protected. There is no protection, except air protection.

BOTH SIDES OF THE WOOD QUESTION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

My recent article on "Substitutes for Wood" seems to have aroused considerable controversy.

I have had a flood of letters from people in the wood business, telling me how wrong the article was.

I did not know that I was entering the controversial field when I wrote the article, but it seems I was. Therefore, for the benefit of the reader who wishes to be unbiased I will present some of the wood propagandists' points which they make in their letters to me.

Any other substance cannot have the resiliency that wood has.

Not forty billion feet of lumber are destroyed every year to make 900,000,000 ties, and all the lumber cut for all purposes in the United States is less than four billions of feet.

Lumber used for ties is rarely good for anything else. If it were not made up into ties it would be burned for fire wood or otherwise wasted.

Substitutes for wood have been tried by railroads and discarded.

England has discarded metal ties, and recently the Los Angeles Railroad has gone back to wooden ties after long use of the other kind.

A good creosoted tie lasts twenty-five years and not eight.

A railroad owned by a steel company recently went back to wooden ties.

Wooden ties are cheaper than metal ties, and they keep fastenings tighter. Steel ties interfere with insulation and in case of derailing, steel ties are of no further use.

These items are culled from letters sent to me and I am not responsible for their accuracy, but at least you have both sides of the question.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Eleanor and Howard Swain are bored—and it worries them. They're both thirty-seven—in good health and comfortable circumstances, deeply devoted to each other. They've enjoyed life immensely until this year. Playing together through college, falling gorgeously in love, building a home, winning friends, making money, traveling, going to plays, listening to good music, golfing, dancing, playing bridge, visiting about—yes, life has been gay and sweet for the Swains until this year.

Now boredom is sifting over them in an ominous, gray film which they can't shake off. They're getting tired, of everything—not physically tired, but mentally stale. They can't get the old kick out of playing around, making money, buying clothes. Nothing seems worth while any more and it worries them dreadfully.

"What will old age be like if we're beginning to lose interest in life now," writes Eleanor in terror.

An enormous proportion of our successful Americans are asking that same question. They're bored in spite of their comfortable programs and plagued with the feeling that they're "losing their interest in life." As a matter of fact, they aren't losing their interest in life. Their trouble is that they've never had an interest in life. They've had an interest in themselves—but that's a very different matter.

All normal human beings should pass through two stages of development. The first in the PERSONAL stage. Youthful amusements, adolescent sports, the thrill of courtship and marriage, the adventure of starting a home, founding a family, making a success in business—these personal interests should absorb and satisfy people until they are about thirty.

Then, naturally, their natures and interests should begin to widen. They should reach out into other lives—identifying themselves with the great abstract problems which concern all men, taking their places slowly but surely in the vast human drama. As they do so, the pleasures and cravings which sustained them in their youth pass away. They are no longer excited or comforted by the things which once served them, but their hearts acquire a new rhythm. They pulse in time with the heart of the race.

People who have passed into this second stage of development are never bored. They have really grown up and they are part of an engrossing spectacle which stimulates them and keeps them young in spirit. You can recognize such people when you meet them. They are like comets swooping across life.

Those who do not pass into this second stage pay a heavy penalty—as we must always pay heavy penalties for obstructing life. They grow restless, discontented—this is a sign that they need to reach out and give themselves more life. They grow bored, as a man who is being asphyxiated grows sleepy. The two processes are, indeed, much alike. One is suffocation of the body, the other is suffocation of the soul.

Are you getting bored? LOOK OUT! Perhaps you need to grow up.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Enchantment used to mean a magic wand, a princess sleeping in a woodland bower, a deathless swan upon a waveless pond, a rose-bud never reaching fullest flower. Time was when earth and all its stores were new, enchantment meant a host of lovely things, a magic carpet weaving through the blue, a bird endowed with never-weary wings. But now, with age, such magic has grown pale and all its wonders leave the vision cold, for earth's rare beauties seem an oft-told tale when eyes have been so many years unfold. Enchantment, now, is but a word, a smile that leads the thoughts to long-past days to rove and wakes in weary hearts, a little while, the wonder of life's determination for real love.

SERVISS SCOFFS AT SHOWER LIGHT

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Subjects of Popular Interest.

The astonishing suggestion has been published in a French astronomical journal of standing, "L'Astronomie," that the velocity of light is decreasing!

As well, almost, affirm that the universe is dissolving and about to fall to pieces as that light, the universal messenger, is losing its paces, which were assumed by a very self-confident theory to have attained the highest speed possible to anything in existence. Be sure that if light is losing speed, science is in for a tumble. And the deepest fall of all will be that of Einsteinism.

However, I do not believe that light is losing speed. But let us see the basis of the assertion that it is. M. Gheury de Bray has been studying the variant results of scientific measurements of the velocity of light, which, excepting the rather rough determinations made by observation of the eclipse of Jupiter's satellites after 1675, do not date back beyond 1849.

Beginning with 1849 there have been nine measurements, cited by M. de Bray. There is no exact record between them, but a general agreement that light moves in open space at a speed very near 300,000 kilometers per second. The Einstein theory assumes that this is the ne plus ultra of velocity in the universe, and that it is precisely the same to all observers everywhere, no matter whether they themselves are moving or not, or in what direction they are moving. That assumption is at the basis of the famous "Relativity" theory.

Stress should be put upon the statement that this fundamental velocity of light exists only in open space, since observation has proved that light is slowed in passing through gases or liquids. Its speed is only three-fourths as fast in water as in air, and only two-thirds as fast in glass as in air. It is not at any delay of that kind that M. de Bray is thinking, but of a real decrease of velocity in unimpeded space, at an average rate of about four kilometers a year.
